PEACE TERMS ACCEPTED BY UNION CHIEFS

CANADIAN STRIKERS RETURN TO JOBS MONDAY

(By The Associated Press)

Labor's struggles in the United States and Canada yesterday brought settlement of differences in the Canadian automotive strike, an open breach of labor forces in Georgia over union rivalry and a return to work of striking employes in Wisconsin hotels.

Representatives of the management and the workers agreed to terms for ending the walkout of 3,700 employes of the General Motors of Canada plant at Oshawa, Ont., during a conference in the Toronto office of Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario. Only approval of the settlement by the strikers at a mass meeting today stood between resumption of work Monday, Premier Hepburn said.

ADOPTED UNANIMOUSLY

Oshawa, Ont., April 22. (AP)—J. L. Cohen, counsel for the United Automobile Workers, announced tonight that the General Motors strikers' stewards unanimously adopted the strike settlement proposal agreed to today in Premier Mitchell Hepburn's office.

The strike was called 15 days ago by the United Automobile Workers of America, one of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization unions.

Fighting CIO

A schism over the C. I. O. split the Georgia Federation of Labor's annual convention into two factional meetings after President William Green of the American Federation of Labor demanded the Georgia group purge itself of individuals and unions sympathetic with Lewis' organization.

The factions met in separate hotels and each insisted its was the actual Georgia Federation of Labor convention. At Washington, Green announced he would call a major conference of A. F. of L. leaders in Cincinnati May 18 to plan a fight against the C. I. O. in a membership drive.

A strike that had paralyzed service at four of Milwaukee's leading hotels was settled. American Federation of Labor union chiefs ordered the strikers to return to their jobs at once under a temporary agreement providing wage increases ranging from five to 15 percent and improved working conditions.

Tries Murphy's Chair; He'll Be 1938 Candidate

Lansing, Mich., April 22 (AP)—Fifteen minutes spent in Gov. Frank Murphy's chair convinced James G. Tremaine Sr., Detroit WPA worker, that he'd like to be governor himself.

So, he announced today, he will be a Democratic candidate for chief executive of Michigan in 1938. Furthermore, he intends to run for the presidency in 1940.

His political ambitions rose rapidly this week. For several days Tremaine has appeared at the statehouse, hoping to ask Gov. Murphy for an appointment as a deputy state fire marshall. But he dasn't seen the governor.

Today he entered the executive office unnoticed during the noon hour. Gov. Murphy had gone to Detroit to attend the Tigers' opening ball game.

Tremaine was found sitting in the governor's chair. State Trooper Harry Kinney led him out unceremoniously.

On a memorandum pad bearing the words "Frank Murphy, governor," Tremaine had scratched out the executive's name and substituted his own.

"Oh, I thought Murphy would like an autograph," he explained.

FIRST DIVORCE IS QUESTIONED

Duke and Mrs. Simpson Making Plans for June Wedding

London, April 22 (AP)—A. Berriedale Keith, famous lawyer, questioned the validity of Wallas Warfield Simpson's first divorce in Warrenton, Va., again today because, he said, a date and place for her marriage to the Duke of Windsor have been fixed.

He raised the issue as friends of the two disclosed final plans were being made for a June wedding, probably at the Chateau de Cande, Tours, France. A definite date, however, was reported withheld until the duke's arrival at the chateau after Mrs. Simpson's English divorce from Ernest Aldrich Simpson is made final, April 27.

Keith, who urged the government last month to remove all doubt of Mrs. Simpson's marital status, wrote the Edinburgh Scotsman, saying: "The only divorces which English law certainly recognizes as dissolving marriages effectively for purposes of status in England are those granted in the court of the husband's domicile."

He said "it seems plain that Mrs. Simpson's first husband was not domiciied in Virginia."

Mrs. Simpson was divorced from Lieut.- Commander E. W. Spencer, Jr., N. S. Navy, in 1927 at Warrenton, Va.

PRESIDENT PAYS HONOR TO POET

Testimonial Dinner Given for Edwin Markham Who Is 85 Today

New York, April 22 (AP)—A tribute from President Roosevelt was the high point of a testimonial dinner given by Staten Island neighbors and other friends tonight to Edwin Markham, dean of American poets, on the eve of his 85th birthday tomorrow.

Markham himself addressed the 350 guests in the Meurot club on the island several times, responding to presentations and reading his poems, including "Child Of My Heart," dedicated to his son, Virgil, and "Lincoln, The Man Of The People."

There had been some doubt whether he would be able to attend. A few months ago his health was so impaired that a New York court judged him mentally incompetent to care for his personal affairs, which were turned over to his son.

Mrs. Markham was unable to attend but Virgil Markham, his son a writer of mystery stories, was present. Anna Hempstead Branch, an honor guest, was referred to by the elder Markham as "one of the three or four greatest living poets."

Ann Arbor Boosts Teachers' Salaries

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 22 (AP)—The Ann Arbor board of education has voted $573,787.36 for the 1937-38 budget, providing for increases of $50 to $100 in teachers' annual salaries and restoring them to a point near the pre-depression level. The total is more than $8,250 above the preceding year's budget.

Rose Smith (left) and Betty Karger are shown inspecting damage to front doorway of the Lake Shore Country club, Glencoe, Ill., in one of five bombings which rocked the Chicago metropolitan area. Miss Smith was in the building when the blast occurred, but was not injured. Police blamed labor trouble for the bombings.

British Freighters Run Spanish Naval Blockade

(By The Associated Press)

Three British freighters set out Thursday night from France to run a Spanish insurgent naval blockade and take food supplies to the hungry populace of besieged Bilbao.

In Valencia, the Spanish government proclaimed the Chilean ambassader, Aurelio Nunez Morgado, persona non grata. It accused him of trying to take securities out of Spain in contravention of law.

War-scarred Madrid withstood another rain of shells which brought the death toll in eleven consecutive days of heavy bombardment close to 250.

The British freighters, which sailed from Saint Jean de Luiz, France, on the 60-mile run to Bilbao, were expected to have a British warship escort until they are three miles off the Spanish coast—probably about dawn today (Friday.)

British naval craft stationed outside the French port exchanged signals as the freighters left and the giant battle cruiser Hood steamed away, presumably to accompany the three. Her destination was not announced, however.

The semi-official news agency Fabra declared the Chilean ambassador's baggage was searched and alleged securities were found when he started to board a plane for France Thursday after coming to Valencia from Madrid Wednesday.

It also charged that the ambassador "allowed buildings in which political refugees were housed (in Madrid) to become veritable espionage centers."

The almost incessent shelling brought angry demands from harried Madrilenos for extreme action to sweep away the besiegers. Newspapers urged "violence for violence" and warned that insurgent-held cities should not expect kindness from government attackers.

The Gran Via, Madrid's most important thoroughfare, again was the target of the insurgent artillerymen. Shells tore gaping holes in the pavement and littered it with debris. At least 30 persons were killed.

LOBBY CHARGED TO OSTEOPATHS

Basic Science Bill Draws Out Personalities in House Debate

Lansing, April 22. (AP)—Bitter personalities marked debate tonight in which the so-called basic science bill advanced through the house to position for a final vote on Tuesday.

The measure is intended to establish uniform educational requirements for the healing art, to apply alike to physicians, surgeons, osteopaths and chiropractors. The latter two professions oppose the bill.

Rep. Verne J. Brown, Republican, Mason, charged from the floor that "I have heard about $1,000 bills floating around here," and criticized the lobbying tactics of partisans to the controversy that surrounds the bill.

He asserted Michigan osteopaths had contributed $20 each to a lobby fund, and that a Davenport, Iowa, school for chiropractic had telegraphed the speaker of the house offering free trips to that city for legislators who might be interested in inspecting the school.

The house sent back to the labor committee the Snow bill, providing minimum wages and maximum hours regulations for women employed in Michigan. The measure was quickly amended and ready to bounce back into the legislators' laps tomorrow, amended to proivde a 5 1-2 day, 44 hour week, applicable to children of both sexes under the age of 18, as well as to women.

"On the Record"

The Responsibilities of Labor

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

What the effect of the constitutionality of the Wagner Labor Relations act will be in either the long or the short run, is not immediately apparent. Possibly, and even in the short run, it may achieve its avowed purpose of removing a chief cause of labor disputes. But we guess that it will have the opposite effect for the moment. It will stimulate the drive of the C. I. O. for vertical organizations in the mass production industries; it will also stimulate the A. F. of L. to increase their efforts to hold what they have by winning new victories for their own members; and despite the act, that drive will be accompanied by strikes, called chiefly for the purpose of making the workers themselves organization-conscious. This, however, is just a guess. In most of the plants where strikes have been called the basic principles of the act—the right of labor to indedendent organization—was not challenged, anyhow. The fights have been over other issues on which the act itself is ambiguous, and chiefly for the right of one union to be recognized as sole collective bargaining agency regardless of whether it provably commanded a majority.

Heat Turned On Up In Harlem Heaven

New York, April 23 (Friday) (AP)—Major J. Divine, the little negro preacher called "god" by thousands of his followers in Harlem and elsewhere, was booked at police headquarters early today on a charge of felonious assault.

The charge came as an aftermath of the serious stabbing earlier this week as a process server who attempted to hand him a legal paper while he was speaking at his principal "heaven" in Harlem.

Detectives arrived shortly after midnight with the prisoner, who had been arrested at Milford, Conn., yesterday. They took him directly to headquarters, where the booking took place.

Added yesterday to a mounting pile of troubles for "Father" Divine, was an inquiry begun by Assistant District Attorney John C. McDermott to determine the source of coal used to keep his peace mission warm.

The prosecutor, assigned some months ago to halt the traffic in illicitly mined coal, voiced a suspicion that the fuel used at the place was of questionable origin.

This development followed a series of jarring blows that have shaken the serenity of Divine's Heaven-on-Earth during the last few days.

First there was an unholy rumpus when a process server tried to hand the self-ordained "messiah" a summons in a civil action while he was preaching a sermon.

Harry Green, a white man who had accompanied the process server to the mission, was stabbed in the abdomen. Three of Divine's negro followers were arrested.

The "father" himself disappeared and was on the police fugitive list until Connecticut authorities found him at Milford today.

Meanwhile there were signs of rebellion in the main heaven on West 115th street.

The corpulent woman known as "faithful Mary," who had helped him organize his mission on a national scale, renounced his leadership and said she would refuse to turn over the heavenly properties held in her name.

His wife, known as "Mother Divine," announced from a hospital cot in Kingston that she likewise would refuse to part with a store held in her name at High Falls, N. Y.

And on the west coast there was a Mann act charge pending against John W. Hunt, a white follower who was accused of seducing a Denver girl.

POLICE BULLETS HALT ESCAPERS

State Trooper Seriously Wounded by Negro Breaking Jail

Uniontown, Pa., April 22 (AP)—A volley of bullets today ended the life of one of the five prisoners who escaped from the Fayette county jail and another surrendered to state police.

While police scoured the Uniontown district for the three still at large, physicians worked to save the life of Private Joseph A. Hoffer, of Shamokin, Pa., a state trooper critically wounded in a gun battle this morning with Hamilton Leftwich, a negro, who broke out of the jail last Thursday.

Four bullets entered Hoffer's chest and abdomen as he and a squad of state troopers surrounded the house of "Big Jim" Jones, a negro miner at nearby Filbert.

Fifteen minutes later, bullets from the policemen's guns sent Leftwich sprawling across the doorway of the little house. He died on the way to a first aid station.

Driven into the open by tear gas grenades, Leftwich opened the front door of the Jones house and fired at Hoffer and Private E. P. Harrison who were standing on the porch.

The officers withheld their fire to permit Mrs. Jones and her seven months old baby to run out of the house. Then a fusillade dropped the prisoner.

Approximately 75 children on their way to school watched the battle from the road and nearby houses.

AMERICANS SAIL FOR CORONATION

Passport Rush Swamps State Department; Tax Proposed

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Americans are heading by the thousands for the coronation of King George VI.

The rush for passports is so great that the state department wants extra help to handle it, and some legislators are talking about reaping a tax harvest at the travelers' expense.

Miss Ruth B. Shipley, chief of the passports division, appealed to congress for funds to hire additional clerks. She said applicants were standing in line daily at passport offices in New York and other large cities.

The British coronation and American prosperity, Miss Shipley predicted, would raise passport totals this year to 170,000, an increase of 30,000 over last year.

Representative Fish (R-NY) promptly proposed a 100 per cent tax on all Americans attending the coronation ceremonies.

"I would add to that," he told the house, "a 100 per cent tax on all American heiresses marrying European fortune-hunters."

Students Hold 'Peace Rally' At Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 22. (AP)—Fifteen hundred University of Michigan students, engaging in peace demonstration in the campus hall today, adopted a resolution "dedicating ourselves to work for eradication of war from the modern world."

Petitions were circulated advocating abolition of compulsory military training and opposing "excessive" military and naval expenditures and any plans to mobilize industry in the event of war.

Classes were dismissed at 11 a. m. for the demonstration, which had the full permission of university authorities. The term "peace strike," used in connection with such demonstrations in past years, was carefully avoided.

The university band played and in the crowd were a few uniformed members of the reserve officers' training corps.

Prof. Maynard Krueger, University of Chicago economist, appealed to the students to "carry this peace movement out from the campuses to the labor group and to millions of others who have it in their pwer to say 'no' to the war machine when the men who operate the machine say 'yes.'"

"Students alone are not going to stop war," Prof. Kruegerr said, "but there is no group which has so well taken the lead. The students are far in advance of even the clergy in sponsoring the peace movement. But unless they can interest these other groups it is nonsense to believe a million students alone can stop the march of the war machine."

'GOD' HUNTED

Harlem's dusky "God," Father Divine (above) has something to scratch his head about now. "Arrest on sight, for felonious assault, George Baker, alias Father Divine and Major Divine" is the order broadcast by New York police after Harry B. Greene, process server, was stabbed and battered at the Harlem "heaven" in New York, where Divine rules.

MICHIGAN FLOOD DANGER IS PAST

Cessation of Rain Halts Damage at Ionia; Few Washouts Reported

Lansing, April 22 (AP)—Fear of another flood here and in other central Michigan river points diminished today after a steady rain that fell yesterday and started Grand and Red Cedar rivers rising ceased last night. The weather bureau saw no immediate prospects of more rain.

Both rivers rose slowly today, but weather and river experts said they believed the rivers would be able to absorb storm waters from their tributaries. The Red Cedar river stood at 7.1 feet today, a rise of .8 of a foot in 24 hours. Flood stage is eight feet. Grand river was a 8.5 feet, .6 of a foot higher than yesterday afternoon. Flood stage there is 11 feet.

Cessation of the rain was believed to have averted further flood damage in Ionia county. The heavy rain that fell for more than 12 hours had caused trouble on Ionia gravel roads and along M-14 south of the US-16 intersection. Comparatively few washouts were reported, however, and it was believed the danger past unless more rain falls.

The weather report was partly cloudy today and tomorrow, with rising temperature.

BALLOT ON WAR URGED BY BYRD

Famous Explorer Heard at Peace Rally in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd recommended at a peace rally tonight that the constitution be so amended that the United States cannot engage in a foreign war unless it is voted by the citizens of the country.

"Of course, when our country is attacked, the president and congress should have power to act quickly," Byrd told 6,000 persons gathered in Convention Hall.

"I submit the right of peaceful nations to demand that, in time of crisis, conciliation be substituted for war. In fact, it is more than a right it is a solemn duty that a nation owes to itself and humanity," he said.

"A nation, being an integral part of the world and a member of the family of nations, can no more be a free agent than can an individual member of a human family. A disaster to a great nation would affect the well being of every other nation of the world.

"I would like to see a document signed by all nations acknowledging to be not only the right but the duty of nations under the law of national self preservation to protect and act together for peace in time of war crisis."

NINE MILLION FAVORED FOR HIGHWAY USE

HALF WOULD GO TO COUNTIES UNDER SENATE PLAN

Lansing, April 22, (AP)—A proposal to divert an estimated $9,000,000 a year from state sales tax revenues reached the floor of the senate today.

A measure providing that the sales levy on automobiles and accessories be earmarked for highway purposes, with half going to the state and half returned to the counties, was reported favorably by the finance committee. According to Louis Webber, former deputy secretary of state, who has been working for passage of the bill, the apportionment of additional state funds to the counties would further reduce local property taxes.

On Mileage Basis

The money returned to the counties would be distributed on the basis of mileage of county roads, for maintenance and improvement. The question put up to the legislature by the bill was whether the state's major source of revenue could stand the drain of that amount and still meet top heavy demands for appropriations for departments and institutions.

The senate passed and sent to the governor the first measure in the fair trade classification. Its relationship to fair trade was distant. The bill, which was sponsored by Reps. Mervin W. Tomlin, Democrat, Port Huron, and George C. Watson, Republican, Capac, permits producers of trade marked articles to enter contracts with retailers fixing the retail price and to refuse to supply merchants refusing to respect the fixed price. The object of the measure is to prohibit the sale, in alleged unfair competition, of such articles below cost as "loss leaders." It is, however, purely permissive as contrasted with mandatory fair trade legislation.

More Welfare Demands

The senate returned to committee the Munshaw-Brake bill to reorganize political state central committees. It proposed making the chairman and vice chairman of each county committee members of the central committee, except in Wayne county where members would be chosen by congressional districts. Senator Miles M. Callaghan, Republican, Reed City, objected to the bill on the ground it would create a central committee selected by office holders rather than by members of the party. County officers are selected by candidates for office. It was believed the measure may die in a committee pigeon hole.

Another demand for additional welfare money appeared in a bill introduced by Senator Charles C. Diggs, Democrat, Detroit. It provided for an annual appropriation of $20,000,000 as compared with the present state grant of $12,000,000. It was referred to the finance committee.

Ex-Treasurer Sues County For Money He Made In Stocks

Mt. Clemens, Mich., April 22. (AP)—Wilfred O. Myll, former Macomb county treasurer who resigned when charged with embezzlement in 1933, sued the county today for the profit on speculations he made in the stock market allegedly with public funds.

He was accused of using $36,400 in market dealings. His action asked that he be refunded $2,073.57 he said he realized on the deals and also interest amounting to $390.70. When his speculations were disclosed the county recovered the $36,400 it said belonged to it and also the money realized in the transactions.

Myll escaped prosecution on embezzlement charges twice through technicalities. He gave his present residence as Kent, Ohio.

Cultist Posts Bond In Mann Act Charge

Los Angeles, April 22 (AP)—Surrendering to federal authorities today, John W. Hunt, 33, wealthy Father Divine cultist, regained his freedom in a few minutes by posting $25,000 bond on a Mann act indictment.

A federal grand jury indicted Hunt yesterday, accusing him of transporting 17-year-old Delight Jewett from Denver to his Beverly Hills home for immoral purposes. She appeared before the grand jury.

Four other U. P. liquor law violators will be taken to the Leavenworth, Kas., penitentiary next week.

Illinois Waterway Channel Suggested

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois asked congress today to authorize realignment of the proposed Calumet-Sag channel to connect the Illinois waterway and Lake Michigan.

His bill proposes that the channel be dug from 130th street to 139th street on the Calumet river in Chicago, and that the old Calumet river be filed in at its intersection with the channel.

the national labor relations board, who asserted he went to that industrial center to investigate charges that manufacturers had interfered with the organization rights of workers, said he had sufficient facts to "warrant the issuance of a complaint and require a formal investigation through a public hearing."

During the day Power Hapgood, two other C. I. O. leaders and two strikers were arrested on charges of "riotous assault." They were released on bail.

A strike of the International Longshoremen's association brought activities at the docks of two large lines in New York City to a standstill.

The C. I. O. called workers out at the Crucible Steel Co. in Harrison, N. J.

Girls Pull Hair

Miners at two Blackwood Coal and Coke Co. mines in southwest Virginia joined diggers at four Stonega Coal and Coke Co. collieries in refusing to labor on an open shop basis.

An abortive attempt at a sit-down demonstration in a Brooklyn department store ended in a hair-pulling scuffle. Three girls were taken to a hospital.

Several hundred supporters joined 28 sit-down strikers in the Artcraft Silk Hosiery mill in Philadelphia. The original occupants had been served with subpoenas but company counsel asked Common Pleas Judge H. S. McDevitt to serve notice that they must appear in court Saturday to show cause why they should not be evicted. The jurist asked:

"Why don't you take them by the back of the neck and put them out?"

Meanwhile, Stockton (Calif.) canners decided to reopen four strike-closed canneries, the first today and the others as soon as operations can be resumed.

An agreement between the company and an A. F. of L. union ended an eight week old strike affecting 450 workers at the Century Wallpaper mills in Decatur, Ill.

At Washington, the A. F. of L. executive council again tackled the question of calling a special convention to expel ten unions already suspended for joining the C. I. O.

Hearings On Court Bill End Tonight; Committee Divided

Washington, April 22 (AP)—The senate judiciary committee's long hearings on the Roosevelt court bill are scheduled to end tomorrow night.

On Tuesday, committee members intend to meet in executive session to begin the probably protracted process of considering the measure paragraph by paragraph and passing upon proposed amendments. Thus the bill will be prepared for consideration by the senate itself.

The committee is almost, if not exactly, evenly divided on the president's request for authority to appoint six new justices to the supreme court. Both sides have expressed determination that their views shall prevail. Many compromise proposals have been put forward, however, among them a suggestion that Mr. Roosevelt be given authority to appoint two new members to the court instead of six.

Lansing Boy Shot Playing With Gun

Lansing, April 22 (AP)—The condition of Richard Smedley, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Smedley, who is in St. Lawrence hospital here with a bullet wound below the heart, was reported improved tonight. Police say he was shot accidentally by his sister, Girard, 7, while the children were playing in the Smedley home on the outskirts of Lansing.

According to police Richard, his sister, and a brother, Leo, 6, found a revolver in the room in which they were playing last night. Girard was inspecting it when the revolver went off, they said. The bullet tore through Richard's right side, missing his heart by a half-inch.

'Outlaw' Carferry Strike Is Settled

Ludington, Mich., April 22 (AP)—The "outlaw" strike of Pere Marquette carferrymen which has disrupted Lake Michigan transportation between Ludington and points in Wisconsin since Saturday, ended Thursday afternoon when seamen voluntarily informed L. H. Kent, Pere Marquette marine superintendent, they would go back to work.

When the carferries, tied up by the strike, will be returned to service has not been definitely decided but the men were assured it would be soon. The No. 32, docked in Milwaukee, will be brought to Ludington before the Nos. 17, 18 and 31, tied up in the local port, are put into service.

Freighter Aground On Straits Island; Sault Tug Called

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 22 (AP)—The ore-laden steamer W. H. McGean was aground tonight on Bois Blanc Island, at the east end of the Straits of Mackinac, awaiting the arrival of the tug Favorite from the Sault.

The McGean, bound from Marquette to Indiana Harbor, Ind., with 10,000 tons of iron ore, grounded at lighthouse point in a storm last night. Coast guardsmen from the Mackinac Island were standing by but the vessel was in no danger and appeared to be undamaged. Capt. H. W. Frilay is in command.

The steamer William R. Linn of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co., which also went aground last night in the lower St. Mary's river, was tied up at De Tour for inspection. The Linn, one of the freighters that led the ore fleet through Lake Superior ice last week, is bound for Lake Erie with 6,000 tons of iron ore.

Former Professor At Houghton Dead

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Dr. O. P. Hood, 71, retired chief of the bureau of mines technical branch, died here today.

Dr. Hood retired last year. Before coming to Washington 20 years ago, he was with the bureau of mines at Pittsburgh and previously was professor of mechanical and electrical engineering at the Michigan College of Mines.

The widow and three sons survive.

Chicago had its heaviest rainfall on Aug. 11, 1923, when two and two-fifths inches of rain fell in 80 minutes.

NINE MILLION FAVORED FOR HIGHWAY USE

9,000 to 15,000 population five instead of four members on county boards of supervisors was passed and sent to the house. The senate approved and sent to the governor house bills permitting port districts to levy a two mill tax, and making the sale of animals infected with tuberculosis or Bang's disease a misdemeanor. It passed and transmitted to the house a measure requiring the use of Michigan flour in state institutions.

REPUBLICANS LOSE

Lansing, April 22 (AP)—The Democratic house majority overwhelmed Republican opposition today to shove through the Myers-Kappler rural electrification bill.

Not a Democratic "nay" appeared on the voting machine as the measure advanced on a 67 to 24 vote. It goes to the senate for concurrence, facing a hard fight.

Rep. Charles R. Feenstra, Republican, Grand Rapids, managed to get into the record part of a speech assailing the bill as "a huge electrical racket at the expense of the farmers," despite heckling and parliamentary maneuvers by the Democrats.

Rep. Fred Kappler, Democrat, Houghton, led the fight for the bill which went through in the from he wanted—providing that any three rural residents might incorporate a co-operative to distribute electrical energy, free of public utilities commission jurisdiction. Under the terms of the bill such a co-operative would have the right to condemn and purchase competing private utilities if it could prove the public service would benefit.

Straits Bridge Endorsed

An attempt by Rep. John B. Smith, Republican, Alma, to attach an amendment creating a state board to control electric co-operatives in the same manner the state public utilities commission controls private concerns was beaten back.

Feenstra, interrupted repeatedly with motions that his speech be "considered read," charged that the bill would permit co-operatives' directors to perpetuate themselves in office, fix their own salaries, and run the associations without governmental supervision. He abandoned the speech when Rep. Herman H. Dignan, Republican, Owosso, suggested that he "show the good sense to stop the oratory."

The house voted also to extend free college tuition to the children of World war veterans who died as a result of service. It goes to the senate for approval.

A bill to require fireproof construction of school buildings also was passed and sent to the senate, 79 to 3.

The members adopted and transmitted to the senate a resolution endorsing the principle of building a bridge to span the Straits of Mackinac. Such a proposal has been advanced in congress.

TRAINMEN MAKE INSPECTION TRIP

Milwaukee Rd. Employes Travel Over Tracks of C.&N.W.

A group of Milwaukee road trainmen and Northwestern officials, sixty-five in all, visited Escanaba yesterday noon while on a tour of inspection covering the lines used in the iron ore operations from the Menominee range to the Escanaba docks. The Milwaukee men, occupying a passenger coach and a business car, were familiarizing themselves with the C. & N. W. tracks, preparatory to going into service on them.

Earlier in the week, meetings were held in Channing where many of the men reside, and they were passed on book of rules examinations. All along the two routes between this city and the Menominee range, they were coached on the difficulties likely to be encountered along the road and were given the opportunity of questioning the Northwestern men.

Go To Work Soon

These Milwaukee road men are to go to work soon on ore trains moving over the Northwestern's tracks, as provided for in the recent agreement by which the C. & N. W. and the C. M. St. P & P. pool all ore taken out of the Menominee range and carry it to the Northwestern's Escanaba ore docks over that company's ore line between here and Antoine. Empty cars are returned by way of the main line, which goes through Powers.

The inspection party left Iron Mountain at 9:45 yesterday morning, and made the trip to Escanaba on the ore line or Schlesinger. They returned to Iron Riverr by way of Powers, on the main line of the railway.

The first Milwaukee road men to go to work under the ore pooling agreement between the two roads were switching crews, which started handling ore trains in the Iron River district last Tuesday.

It is expected that the Milwaukee road crews will have 34 per cent of the road service and 20 per cent of the switching service on the Menominee range, which has been described by the Interstate Commerce commission's decision on the ore pooling agreement as the territory between Escanaba, Crystal Falls and Iron River on the Northwestern. Milwaukee men will also handle all traffic from the Northwestern railway between Crystal Falls and Amasa.

Many of the Milwaukee road employes who are to share in the ore hauling work reside in Channing, which has been the junction point for ore hauling by their railroad, the trains moving from that point to the docks over the lines of the Escanaba and Lake Superior railway.

Heavy Snow Damages Communication Lines And Disrupts Service

Four inches of heavy, wet snow, which clung to electric light, telephone and telegraph lines, effected great damage throughout the city of Escanaba and surrounding territory and caused residents of this area great inconvenience late Wednesday night and early yesterday morning.

City light crews have been working almost continuously since the storm struck and the department has been taxed to its limit to retain service throughout the city. Six light poles broke under the strain and approximately 125 service wires snapped, leaving many homes without lights. The industrial power circuit was interrupted for a time when the 6600-volt line wires were crossed. Many wires of the motor circuit were crossed, causing machines to be out of order.

The Escanaba Power company reported that none of its lines were out of commission at any time.

Telephone Lines Hit

O. Sundquist, manager of the local Bell Telephone company, reported that 70 poles were down between Escanaba and Powers and late yesterday no lines were working south, with crews working to clear some circuits. Two lines were working to Marquette, but the line to Manistique was out with a large number of poles down. Pole lines to Flat Rock were down and in Escanaba alone approximately 300 telephones were put out of commission.

Mr. Sundquist said that three construction crews had been called in and repairs are being made as fast as possible. The local crew has worked day and night since the storm's effects began to be felt by the company. The company expects to have lines in Gladstone and smaller towns cleared by the end of the week. New pole lines will have to be built in many places as the poles are broken and must be replaced.

The Soo Line reported 42 poles down west of Newhall and others out between Gladstone and Manistique.

Four Inches of Snow

Weather Observer W. T. Lathrop said that four inches of snow had fallen by midnight and a little more after that. He said that, unofficially, more than four inches had fallen because much of it had melted before it began to accumulate. Total precipitation for the 24 hours was seventy-four hundredths of an inch. Mr. Lothrap explained that the damage was done more by snow than by the wind because the temperature was at such a point that it stuck to the wires, accumulating there. A wind velocity of 24 miles per hour was reported by the bureau readings, taking place about 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night. Unofficially too, it was pointed out, the off shore wind probably was much higher due to the fact that the instruments are on the temporary building at 909 Ludington street and the velocity was reduced somewhat by "surface friction."

A review of weather records shows that the snowstorm in April was nothing out of the ordinary. On April 30, 1909, a total of 15.8 inches of snow fell, preceded by three inches on the 29th, making a total of almost 19 inches of snowfall in two days. On April 23 of the next year, 11.4 inches of snow fell.

FOUR MEN LOSE LIQUOR PERMITS

Escanaba Council Cuts Number of Licensees to Quota of 19

Four proprietors of Escanaba establishments lost their licenses to sell liquor by the glass as members of the city council met in private with V. F. Gormely of the state liquor commission yesterday morning. Those to lose their liquor licenses were Leonard J. Moreau, Frank X. Gauthier, Merville J. Kesler and Herman Roberge.

This action by the council brought the total number licensed to sell liquor down to 19, the number allowed by state legislation under the quota system. One license is allowed for every 750 population or major fraction thereof. Present licenses, which were not affected, expire May 1.

Changes were made in the licensing of several establishments, formerly listed as Class B hotels. They were found, upon recent inspection by a state police investigator, to lack the proper qualifications. Joseph Mileski, Michael A. Walch, Phil LeDuc and Mirko Skradski applied for Class C restaurant licenses in place of their former Class B hotel licenses, at a cost of $200 more.

Ask New Permits

The local men losing their liquor licenses asked to apply for new permits as follows: Leonard J. Moreau, tavern license; Frank X. Gauthier, Class A hotel; Merville J. Kesler, tavern license; Herman Roberge, Class B restaurant.

Licenses approved by the council to Class B hotels were: Michigan, Delta, Colonial, Hiawatha, Sherman, Welcome and Ludington. Class C restaurants given permits were: John Peltier, Louis Schuette, Phil LeDuc, Joseph Mileski, George Coplan, Harry Gierke, Dave Lacosse, Victor Larson, Leonard Murray, Mirko Skradski, Palmer Jorgenson and Michael Walch.

Licenses to sell beer were granted to: Victor Johnson estate, Richard Flath, George Williams, Irene Gauthier, Ed Erickson Tavern, Nicholas Carr, Nick Thinnes, Harry Tilbert, John Lammi, Otto Scheriff, A. Bonamer, Marie Young and Fred Morton.

QUERIED ABOUT CATTLE THEFTS

Rapid River Man Not Held Here, 3 Arraigned for Cable Theft

Edward Dellabo, of Rapid River, who had been held in the Delta county jail for investigation in a series of cattle thefts, was dismissed yesterday.

Dellabo had been implicated by Carl Lee, 24 year old Carney youth who was captured by Gladstone police and turned over to Sherriff Edward Reindl of Menominee by Sheriff William Miron. Lee was arraigned on a charge of theft of electric power cable from the White Rapids dam property and waived examination at Menominee. He was bound over to circuit court and bond set at $1,500.

Sheriff Reindl said he had a confession from Lee that he and Vernon Robinson, 32, of Powers, and Henry Van, 28, of Carney, had stolen the cable valued at more than $600 from drums in an enclosure on the power company's property at White Rapids. Robinson and Van were bound over to circuit court at Menominee on the wire theft charges.

Robinson and Van, who gave his name as Harry Burk, were nabbed by local police officers when they attempted to dispose of the cable. Two hundred and eighty-seven pounds of cable were recovered by officers when they arrested the pair.

More Right Than Wrong

IT IS the fashion to say that the world is going to the dogs, that it is progressing from bad to worse, but this view is clearly wrong. If you don't believe it, take the time to read Ridpath's or some other good history of the world and you will see that, numerous as our troubles are, the world is slowly getting better.

There is no such thing as inevitably continuous social progress. Like every thing else, social developments move in cycles and spirals, and the trend of each generation is slowly but surely upward. Terrific temporary setbacks may and do occur, such as a world war, but even after that cataclysm there is more right than wrong in the world, as W. J. Cameron of Dearborn pointed out in a recent radio address.

It is wrong that is most clamorous and makes the newspaper headlines most frequently, but that only proves that wrong is exceptional—in other words, that it makes news. The good is the commonplace, the usual thing which generates little or no newspaper copy and is taken as a matter of course. Right is so manifest everywhere that the presence of wrong, or what we may think is wrong, becomes a challenge and its correction a crusade.

We now understand at least dimly that greed and the stupidity of social indifference are first class evidence of stunted intelligence. If we are right-minded we shall be quick to recognize the good as well as the bad, and to generously give credit to the good impulses and actions of others who honestly believe they are right but who do not always think as we do. Right moves on, often slowly and painfully, but surely. Only the balanced view, which sees all factors, is the correct one, generating the calm and confident attitude of mind which is the greatest asset which any individual can possibly possess.

Earle and McNutt

SENATOR J. HAMILTON LEWIS of Illinois nominates Governor Earle of Pennsylvania for president and Paul V. McNutt, former Indiana governor, for vice president for the 1940 campaign.

The Institute of Public Opinion recently rated James A. Farley and Governor Earle as the two most prominent members of the Democratic party, with Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan holding third place. Commenting on the poll, the New Republic magazine predicts that Governor Murphy is quite likely to see public service in the future outside of the boundaries of this state.

The picking of presidential candidates at this stage of the game is risky business, however. Much can be happen to the leading possibilities to topple them down from their pedestals. There also has been talk, of course, that Governor Murphy might be good presidential timber, but quite likely that the Democratic party chieftains have not forgotten that Alfred E. Smith found it tough going down in the Solid South, where religious prejudices surmount even political fervor.

Self-Reform

PEOPLE who remember the abuses of the brewing business in the years before prohibition—abuses that were in very large part responsible for the adoption of the 18th amendment—might be glad to learn that the brewers themselves have profited by lessons of the past. They have now formed the United Brewers Industrial Foundation as an organization "to align the industry with every force working for the public good."

Col. Jacob Ruppert, chairman of the foundation, remarked at its first meeting:

"Every American brewer knows that in the events leading up to prohibition there were many evils which he abhorred and which he does not want to have repeated. He knows that for an industry to survive and develop it must function in the public as well as in the private interest."

If th brewing industry can bear that in mind, and shape its policies accordingly, we may be spared a repetition of the old abuses which led the country to welcome prohibition.

No 'Defeat'

MARVIN CREAGER, managing editor of the Milwaukee Journal, gave to the American Society of Newspaper Editors one of the most sensible comments on the part of the press in American politics that we have yet heard.

Last fall, he remarked, President Roosevelt was triumphantly re-elected despite the fact that a majority of the nation's dailies fought him. Was this, then, a defeat for the press, as many people have said? Listen to Mr. Creager:

"Few editors wish to see newspapers reach such power as to be able to control elections. What we have seen is in no real sense a defeat for the press. It is rather a striking demonstration that the public power of the press lies in informing rather than in exhorting."

In other words, the newspaper is primarily what its name implies—an organ for disseminating news. It did that job very ably in the last campaign. It gave the voters the facts and the voters made up their minds on the basis of those facts. There is no shadow of a "defeat" in that.

Senate Against Oath

THE state senate voted 23 to 4 for the Dotsch bill, providing for repeal of Michigan's teachers oath act, and sent the measure on its way to the house.

Senator James Dotsch of Garden, who has served as a member of the teaching profession, introduced the bill, which is intended to take off the statute books the law which requires that teachers take an oath of allegiance to the constitution when signing a contract.

Throughout the country, there is a movement under way to repeal the teachers oath laws, which were enacted during a wave of misguided patriotism. There is no reason why the teaching profession should be singled out to take such oaths. No finer group of citizens can be found than our educators.

The teacher's oath law is just another of those useless pieces of legislation that have been allowed to accumulate in this state. If the house follows the example of the senate a good start will have been made toward wiping out these meaningless laws.

Instead of dabbling with silly, unimportant legislation, it would be much better if the legislators would concern themselves with a few laws that are important. The passage of a civil service law for Michigan would be a worthwhile contribution, for instance.

Other Editors' Comments

THE LAND CROSSROADS
(Grand Rapids Press)

MICHIGAN stands today at the crossroads in public land affairs.

There are millions of acres of cutover land in the northern counties of the state, land from which the only marketable resource was stripped by lumbermen many years ago, acres from which the scant fertility was burned away by recurrent raging forest fires that followed the ax.

This land will not support itself in agriculture. Dotting its sandy acres are countless tumbledown log cabins and abandoned tar paper shacks, bearing mute witness to the blighted hopes of families that tried farming on lands where the plow should never have gone.

Useless for agriculture, this land is priceless as an outdoor playground. It is the land that produces the annual crop of trout, deer, grouse and other wildlife, the land that lures millions of summer visitors into northern Michigan each year. It is the land that supports Michigan's recreational industry, second greatest in the state.

For nearly 20 years the state conservation department has been acquiring blocks and parcels of this land that reverted to state ownership for nonpayment of taxes.

It has kept fire out, grown game cover, planted young forests, improved streams, planted fish. It has built, patiently and steadily, value into lands once believed valueless. It has created a system of state parks, state forests, game refuges, public hunting grounds and other areas that is envied throughout the United States.

It has in recent years traded these tax-delinquent lands with the United States forest service to acquire other lands with frontage on lakes and streams, insuring the people of Michigan a place to camp and fish upon their waterways.

Such a trade within the last six months put the state in possession of the Tahquamenon Falls area, a matchless gem of wilderness beauty not rivaled in the Middle West.

But now the politicians want a chance at the state's land affairs. Because the conservation department has guarded the public interest, because it has shut the gates against the speculator and the land shark, certain malcontents would take control of tax-delinquent lands in the cut-over counties away from the department. They would set up a state land office board and authorize that board to sell tax-reverted lands — to land sharks or whoever wanted to buy—at as low as 25 per cent of their assessed value, less than 50 cents an acre in many cases. Any speculator could afford to gamble at that price.

The basic question involved is simple: Is Michigan to continue its present sane policy of handling public lands for the benefit of the people or is it to go back 20 years and more to the days of land speculation that ignored the public's rights and gave less than no thought at all to the future welfare of the cutover acres?

NOT A BIG PROBLEM
(Ironwood Globe)

THE Michigan liquor control commission is considering the creation of an undercover flying squadron to investigate liquor violations and "help check bad local liquor conditions." That should be no problem, but it hardly seems necessary with an efficient state police organization operating in the state.

What the liquor control commission should do is call in Oscar C. Olander, state police commissioner, and turn over the duties of checking on violators to members of his force. They are located in all sections of the state and have good knowledge of local conditions. For the time being there seems to be a tacit agreement that they are not to meddle in local situations. In consequence, there is comparatively little activity against liquor violators on the part of state police except in the more flagrant cases. Their lack of activity seems to reflect a reluctance on the part of the administration to crack down on violators, or at least a reluctance on the part of Olander to give orders until he is apprised of the administration's attitude.

London—Hawk-nosed, dark-eyed, saber-toothed, straggle-moustached Neville Chamberlain, at present Chancellor of the Exchequer in Premier Baldwin's "National government" cabinet, some time in the early summer probably will have the honor of being the first Prime Minister to "kiss hands" in the reign of George VI.

Baldwin is a hold-over from the very brief reign of abdicated Edward VIII. Chamberlain is expected to be the first in the line of the new Georgian leaders of Parliament. Baldwin has indicated that shortly after the King's coronation, May 12, he intends to resign. He is seventy. And he is tired. He probably will go where tired British statesmen go—to the House of Lords with an Earldom conferred by his "gracious monarch".

The advent of Neville Chamberlain to the greatest post a politician can achieve in British life will sign and seal the Chamberlain family as one of the greatest dynasties in modern English political history.

—JOE CHAMBERLAIN'S BOYS—

The first of the family to break into the political game was Joseph Chamberlain, who followed his father's footsteps as a screw manufacturer in Birmingham, which town ever since has been a Chamberlain political fief. In 1874 Joe Chamberlain retired from business with a big fortune. As a radical reformer he was three times elected Mayor of Birmingham—1873-76. He made of Birmingham a great modern city. All his life he favored the poor and tried to remedy their condition. He had the doubtful honor of being hated and feared by old Queen Victoria who dreaded his radical, outspoken, almost republican views. He entered Parliament in 1876 as a Liberal and held office under the great Gladstone. Because of his opposition to Gladstone's advocacy of Home Rule for Ireland, he quit the Liberal party and ultimately joined the Tories.

He came to the United States in 1888 as one of the British Commissioners for the settlement of the Canadian fisheries dispute, fell in love with and married a daughter of William Endicott, then Secretary of War in President Cleveland's cabinet. This was his third marriage. He had been twice a widower. A son by the first marriage became the famous Sir Austen Chamberlain, who died several weeks ago. A son by the second marriage was Neville Chamberlain.

Joe Chamberlain became secretary for the Colonies in several Tory cabinets and at one time advocated an alliance between England, the United States and Germany.

His eldest son, Sir Austen, had a distinguished career in Tory governments and in coalitions. He held nearly every post except that of Premier. Postmaster General, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Secretary for India, member of the World War cabinet, Lord Privy Seal, Lord of the Admiralty and Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

—LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON—

Neville Chamberlain, the next Prime Minister at the head of the national government, like his father before him, started in politics after having been a success as a business man. He took a part in the family manufacturing business in Birmingham. For seven years, from 1890, he lived in the Bahamas in the West Indies, looking after some family plantation interests.

Returning to Birmingham, like his father before him, he entered local politics. He was chosen to the City Council in 1911 and became an Alderman in 1914. He was Lord Mayor of his town in 1915 and 1916. The national government made him Director General of National Service during the war years. Entering Parliament, he was Postmaster General in 1922, Minister of Health in 1923 and from 1924 to 1929. For the past three years he has been Chancellor of the Exchequer.

His father fought in vain to have the Tory party plump for a protective tariff. To the son fell the honor of introducing the budgets which made of Britain a protective tariff, instead of a free trade, country.

As King George VI's own first Premier, Neville Chamberlain will never set the Thames afire with eloquence as Lloyd George used to do; he will not impress with a Roman dignity like Asquith, nor amuse with apt literary allusions like Stanley Baldwin. As a speaker, he is rather arid, sticking to facts and more facts. But he is a hard worker, a capable executive and eminently safe and sane.

He will do nothing spectacular. He will not have a passionate House of Commons following, because there is considerable ice water in his veins and he smiles as if he feared it would crack his face. But he will get jobs done, because his gospel is work. At 68 he is still untiring.

By no means should the liquor control commission countenance the proposal that the commission itself establish an undercover flying squadron. At best the commission is too hamstrung by politics to do effective work. If it established such a squadron, members of it would be political appointees. The best way out of it is to turn the job over to the state police with orders to clean out the violators.

A strong move is on foot to repeal the U. S. income tax clause authorizing publication of salaries of all corporate officials receiving $15,000 a year or more. This is to put a brake on swindlers compiling "sucker lists," and gangsters and racketeers.

Speaking of Sit-Downers

The Literary Guidepost

BY JOHN SELBY

"BONAPARTE," by Eugene Tarle; (Knight: $4.50).

EUGENE TARLE'S "Bonaparte" is not the first evaluation of Napoleon in terms of the new Russian ideology, nor, probably, will it be the last. It is possibly the best to date, however, and is likely to hold a place in our libraries for quite a time.

JOHN SELBY

Tarle has "uncovered a mass of new and illuminating Napoleonic material." All biographers have; it is one of the stock phrases on publishers' book jackets. But the true contribution of Tarle is his refocussing of the old material.

"Napoleon's ambition for fame," the preface reads, "was exceeded only by his thirst for power. To crush the enemy, to impose his will upon him, to keep him 'forever' in subjection, and at his own discretion . . . Victories which did not bring direct political benefits were not important to him.

". . . For us, the Napoleonic empire is the birth of the stubborn conflict of new social and economic forces, a conflict which did not begin with Napoleon or end with him, and whose basic significance consisted in the victorinos assault of the middle class against the feudal and semi-feudal order in France and Europe. This struggle . . . and the wars of national liberation which followed, succeeded in placing Europe on the road of 'free' capitalism."

But Professor Tarle does not wish his readers to under-estimate the man Napoleon. The grandeur of his concepts, the tragedy of his destiny and pervasiveness of his influence in both social and philosophic thought remain—and always will remain.

Since everything in the book is related to the people rather than to their rulers, it has a topsy-turvy air for those of us accustomed to the usual study—such as Aubry's "St. Helena." But this makes for a broader foundation.

LYRICS OF LIFE

FARM FOLK

He was a farmer all his life,
A farmer's daughter for his wife,
Although he might have wed another
Instead of someone like his mother.
The farmer's daughter might have done
Much better than a farmer's son
If she had let some boy entrance her
In town, and got a better dancer.

They spent their lives upon the place,
The strangest thing about the case
The fact they never noticed sadly
That life had treated them so badly.
They kept on saving, slow but sure,
Not one year spending, one year poor.
The bad year was their scale of living,
The good occasion for thanksgiving.

They both were farmfolk in their ways,
And independent all their days.
They had their big crops and their little,
But never lacked for roof or victual.
They would have been surprised to know
Their terrible condition, though.
What villains robbed them and controlled them—
I'm glad that no one ever told them.

New York Column

BY JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK — We always thought the practical joker was a nuisance and an exceptional nuisance at that . . . But to John M. Davis, he is something much finer than bread-and-butter and his numbers in the land make the word "exceptional" a gross understatement.

JACK STINNETT

For 20 years, Davis has been applying himself seriously to the invention and manufacture of practical jokes. And so successful has he been at it that what, 20 years ago, was a hole-in-the-wall business has blossomed into a $5,000,000 industry.

Davis has what is known as the Magnotrix Novelty corporation, with offices and factory in Park Row, where once the only trick was getting out a newspaper. He keeps 25 persons busy turning out the gadgets that he thinks up.

* * *

IT IS to Davis's ingenuity, we are told, that you may credit such things as the water-squirting gadgets, soap that blackens instead of whitens your hands, chocolates with garlic centers, boxes that hurl snakes at you instead of what is promised on the label, and devices that explode with a bang instead of performing their proper function.

Davis works like a song-writer or novelist. He turns out a new "joker," as he calls them, each season and if it goes over, he has a best-seller on his hands. Last year his best seller was a sparkling match. This year, it seems to be a package of cigarets with a concealed squirt gun. When the "cigaret bum" reaches for the proferred fag, he gets a handful of water. It's killing! and it's selling like the proverbial hotcakes.

Davis finds inspiration for his new items all around him. There was the time he went to a movie. During the show, a girl sang "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" Just like that, an idea popped into Davis's head.

The result was a small cardboard box. On the cover was the title of the song. You opened the box and there was a huge bedbug. Screaming?

"As long as the song was popular," says Davis, "it was a tremendous hit. Couldn't keep the orders filled."

Davis divides his time between originating new jokers and "switching" old ones.

* * *

YEARS ago, Davis discovered that the old exploding kitchen match had quit selling. He gave it a little serious thought. It was because, he figured out, no one carried the big old fashioned matches any more. He transferred the explosion to book matches. For a while this went splendidly. Then dealers started complaining that purchasers felt these were dangerous and would not buy them. Davis again went into an inventive huddle and came out with a match that sparkled like a Fourth of July sparkler, instead of exploding. That solved everything.

I think they held out on me. I could have eaten more.

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

Washington—President Roosevelt has made a successful practice of overriding his congressional consultants, but this time there is going to be trouble.

Details of their pre-budget pow-wow at the White House have gone unreported, but you may accept the fact on unquestionable authority that the leaders have never before talked so alarmingly to their respected party boss. And they were, for the first time, unanimous against the middle-of-the-road course the President insisted on taking.

Mallon

Even Senate Floor Leader Robinson, who has not questioned any of the President's acts, including the supreme court packing plan, talked fiercely (the adverb comes from a conservative source) against Mr. Roosevelt's failure to cut expenses more realistically.

No more fundamental analysis of the existing trend of national affairs has developed in the past year than occurred in that three-hour discussion in the President's study.

The whole inside situation was presented raw.

—DECEPTION?—

They told the President he was being misled about the real relief needs of the country. Of course, relief-man Harry Hopkins wants all the money he can get; any bureaucrat thinks his own bureau is the biggest in the world; he naturally would exaggerate the situation. Why, Hopkins was actually put on record before congress, within thirty days, as being in favor of permanent relief in this country.

They told him he was being deceived also by the state governors and city mayors who are saying they cannot exist without federal money. If the President is going to wait until local authorities are willing to give up the federal dole, before curtailing it sharply, he will never be able to give it up.

In the privacy of the presidential gathering, some of the congressional leaders conceded their own states did not need the money being demanded by the governors. Figures were quoted to show the states are producing more goods than ever, and what is more, are getting more money for the gods than they are accustomed to get.

It was all right for the federal government to run itself into heavy debt to care for people when the states could not. That was a question of emergency. Now the emergency is over. There is no excuse for continuing it in view of the financial condition of the treasury.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau sat in a corner with a dark look on his face throughout the argument, but he gave a doleful analysis of the treasury situation.

—BURDEN—

The President's position seemed to be he did not know how to get around the demands of the governors and mayors, backed by Mr. Hopkins. At least, this is the impression carried away by some of the leaders.

It is being suggested in house quarters that this is purely an administrative problem. It should be worked out on some business-like basis. The governors and mayors should be required to show their inability to handle the suatition; and exactly how many worthy needy there are, as apart from those who have always been needy in good times and bad. The burden of proof should be shifted to them. At the very least they should be required to take the public responsibility for plunging the federal treasury deeper in the hole before they are given a cent. Unless they publicly and officially do so, they should not be permitted to snitch their fat toles from the federal park barrel, merely to feed their local political machines, and make the President take the responsibility.

The argument actually got up to the pitch where one presidential caller, after leaving the White House, hotly termed the existing relief set-up a "racket."

—OTHER SIDE—

Apparently Mr. Roosevelt felt he was doing something toward correction of the situation by cutting the governors-mayors' demands 25 per cent to $1,500,000,000. At any rate, he declined to alter his message in any particular to meet congressional demands. He likewise feels that "Roosevelt luck" does not go with nature. Every time he gets fiscally optimistic, along comes a drought, flood or something.

Those who tell his side of the story say the explanation for Speaker Bankhead's gloom after the meeting was that the President "nearly deserted" the farm tenant bill. They say also that Senator Pat Harrison's displeasure might be rooted in the fact that his expensive federal dole for state educational purposes did not fit in with the President's idea of economy either.

Note—The billion-dollar Wagner Housing bill also was discussed. No fixed decision was reached, but the general understanding is that it will be cut about 95 per cent, at least, at the start.

—WARNING—

When congressmen start taking an alarming view about federal pork, you may well conclude that the situation is likely to be alarming. The whole history of government shows that congress is instinctively the spending agency, that presidents are always trying to hold them down.

The break this time may or may not lead to some constructive curtailments, but more and more congressmen are muttering this threatening promise to themselves:

"If anyone is going to be dictator around here, it should be the congress."

The maple syrup season started with a bang at Marshfield, Wis. Someone used the boiling vat of Wilber Draheim as a rifle target and 50 gallons of syrup were lost.

TWO BILLS AID IN T.B. FIGHT

Sundstrom Plan Would Boost Sanatorium Pay from State

Relief for Michigan counties that have reached the limit of their ability to fight tuberculosis with county funds is sought in the state legislature this week through the introduction of two bills in the house. Through provision for increased state aid to all counties hospitalizing tuberculous individuals, the proposed amendments to the state's present tuberculosis code not only would relieve hard-pressed local governments, but would establish an incentive for more adequate protection against the disease on the part of counties that heretofore have lagged in caring for their tuberculous, though funds, in many instances, have been available.

Reversing the present state-county ratio of payment of hospitalization costs, House bill No. 493, introduced by Representative Charles F. Sundstrom, of Marquette county, would increase state aid to counties owning and operating a sanatorium from 75 cents to two dollars per patient per day. Elimination of red tape procedures that are at present serving to delay prompt admittance of patients to sanatoria would likewise be provided for through the Sundstrom measure, Sanatoria care immediately would upon diagnosis, it was pointed out, not only assure the patient of a better chance to recover, but make a shorter term of treatment adequate and consequently reduce the load upon the taxpayers.

The same state aid that the Sundstrom bill proposes to give to counties owning sanatoria will be provided for counties hospitalizing patients in the state sanatorium if approval is given House bill 502, introduced by Representative Ellis E. Faulkner, of Barry county. The bill would raise the present state subsidy to county governments from one to two dollars. In addition, it provides for the care at state expense of employes of state-operated hospitals who develop tuberculosis in the performance of duty.

OVER 40 COME TO DEDICATION

New Moderator Chosen; Newberry Family Gives Organ

Newberry, April 22—More than forty visiting ministers and elders and their wives were present in Newberry on Tuesday and Wednesday for the dedication of the Presbyterian church and the annual session of the Lake Superior Presbytery. Rev. N. U. McConaughy of Iron Mountain was elected the new moderator at the Tuesday evening session following the dedication, and took charge of the Presbytery sessions for the rest of the conference. He succeeds Rev. John Hamel, Sunday school missionary of Marquette, who served as moderator last year.

This fine celebration completed the building program of the local Presbyterian congregation, which has for the past year and a half been constructing one of the most artistic churches in the peninsula. The celebration started on Sunday morning when the Hammond organ, a gift to the congregation from Truman H. and John S. Newberry and their sister, Mrs. Helen N. Joy, of Detroit. The Newberry family has been closely connected with this congregation since the old church, built during the town's early lumbering history, was presented with the bell, a silver communion service, and other gifts.

On Tuesday evening the dedicatory sermon was delivered by the Rev. John VerStraate of Sault Ste. Marie. The scripture was read for this service by Rev. William Yauch, now of Ontonagon, a former pastor of this church, with the prayer by Rev. R. H. Hannum of Menominee. While the church structure was erected through the labor and sacrifice of members of the congregation, several special gifts besides the organ add much to the beauty and usefulness of the edifice. Windows have been placed by Mrs. Archie Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall, Ann Marie Campbell Dickenson, Mr. and Mrs. William Green, Sr., Mrs. Maria Beach, William C. Kelly. The altar was given in memory of Mrs. Sarah McLean and the lectern in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Harris.

The building committee was comprised of Rev. R. A. Garrison, Dr. E. H. Campbell, V. A. Berglund, C. D. Zagelmeier, C. P. West, Dr. H. E. Perry, Sidney Foster with Leonard C. Peterson as treasurer of the committee and of the church.

Conference Site

Following the election of the new moderator on Tuesday night, the Presbytery session continued until Wednesday afternoon. A communion service opening the morning session followed by routine business, committee meetings and reports. Plans were reported for an elaborate celebration of the 100th year of foreign missionary work, the event being kept in mind throughout the church program all during 1937. Progress was reported of the plans for a site for a Young People's Summer Conference at Lake Michigamme. Rev. William Yaugh was elected conference clerk.

A better method of locating ministers and filling pulpits was discussed and further action in this respect will be taken. While the Presbytery has always had the privilege of attending to this work, much of it was left to individuals and a more efficient and satisfactory method has long been needed, Rev. Garrison reported.

A dinner was served to the visitors at noon by the ladies of the church in the dining room, and a buffet lunch served at the close of the session. Among those present were Rev. Leonard Calvert, Calumet; Rev. J. P. Murray, Channing; Rev. John VerStraate, Sault Ste. Marie; Rev. Carl E. Berger, Escanaba; Rev. John W. Koning, Florence, Wis.; Rev. William D. Rule, Houghton; Rev. Elmer P. Gieser, Ishpeming; Rev. D. Lloyd Huenink, Manistique; Rev. Herbert J. Bryce, Marquette, Rev. Robert H. Hannum, Menominee; Rev. William Yaugh, Ontonagon; Rev. Simon Hocking, St. Ignace; Rev. Charles E. Morrison, Manistique; Rev. R. A. Garrison, Newberry, host to the conference; Rev. John R. Jones, Houghton, and Rev. Merrill, Gaastra.

Elders present were: Charles White, Donaldson; James S. Davidson, Escanaba; A. H. Trestrail, Gaastra; M. J. Anuta, Menominee; J. N. Wallace, Munising; Sidney Foster, Newberry; Fuller Cowell, Pickford; John H. Bone, Sault Ste. Marie; J. H. Johnson, St. Ignace; Mrs. J. P. Murray, Channing; Mrs. Mary Holbein and Mrs. Walter Orr, Manistique.

Official visitors from out of the Lake Superior Synod were Rev. John W. McCracken, new field representative for Christian Education for the Synod of Michigan, and Dr. John Commin, Synodical executive, both of Detroit.

On the Record

BY DOROTHY THOMPSON

tionably be the chief beneficiary, and for a simple reason. The vertical form of organization is the only form which makes sense in mass production industries. The craft, or guild type of union is a holdover from an age of handicrafts and small industry. For modern mass industry it is inefficient. It has always led to jurisdictional disputes; sometimes a single industrial management would have to deal with as many as twenty or more separate unions, thus creating the temptation—seldom resisted—to play them off against each other. The industrialists themselves recognized the logic of vertical organization when they formed the company union, and if the A. F. of L. had not been a singularly unintelligent organization, it would have been concentrating its energies during the last years on winning the company unions over and taking them away from the employers and into the fold.

There will be a swift growth of union organization, more centralized than ever before, because it is vertical and comprehensive, and with greater possibilities of political power. But whether, from the viewpoint of the total community, these gains are good or bad, depends entirely upon labor statesmanship. Few enlightened or reasonable people will question Mr. Lewis's primary premise: that labor is entitled to a larger slice of the pie of production. Not only is labor entitled to it, but it is in the interests of the general welfare that labor should have it. That larger slice will be distributed in various ways: in the forms of increased insurances against the hazards of unemployment, old age, and temporary retirement because of illness. This slice will be paid for by the community at large, and labor, as such, will use its political power to see that the community does not reneg on promises which have been given. It will get part of the larger slice in better wages, particularly through the establishment of minimum levels, and reasonable hours.

But if labor is to hold these gains in economic and political power it will have to demonstrate to that part of the community which is not in its ranks, that it is not, itself, bent on exploitation. It will have to develop a social consciousness larger than a mere labor consciousness. For labor itself is capable of adopting the basic policies of the most unenlightened capitalism—policies of monopoly, rigidity, and scarcity economy, which can have disastrous consequences for the total community, and, in the end, disastrous consequences for themselves. For the public is perfectly aware that there is such a thing as a tyranny of trade union bureaucracy. We have seen it elsewhere, and we have seen it often enough here at home.

Not all the opposition to trade union practices comes from economic royalists jealously defending the larger portion of the pie. It is a fact that some industrialists with the most enlightened attitude toward labor are apprehensive of trade unionism on sound economic grounds. They have not opposed the unionization of their plants because they are anxious to screw down wages, or stretch out hours, or foist upon the workers unhealthy conditions. Among them are industrialists who have consistently paid wages above the union level, offered hours shorter than those established by the unions, and added bonuses, pensions, recreational facilities, and many other things as well. What they hate in the unions is the ca-canny policy which sabotages production by establishing the maximum efficiency per worker at the level of the most inefficient; by laying down rules which add terrifically to the waste of materials and power; by hampering the training of badly needed skills.

In all capitalist countries the unions engage in practices which would never be tolerated for an instant in a socialist state. For the socialist society is right on a fundamental thing: socialism demands of the workers more and better production at more and more reasonable prices. It forbids the sabotaging of the productive apparatus. It is basically hostile to the idea of a scarcity economy. It insists that the worker shall have his full share of the total production. But it also insists that he shall produce, and that once decent and humane standards are established he shall devote himself with zeal to raising the total standard of living by improving the quality and efficiency of production, and eliminating waste.

If, inside a capitalist or semi-capitalist society, the community undertakes to guarantee to the worker certain minimum standards and certain economic rights, then society will inexorably demand that those rights should not be abused at the cost of the community. If they are abused, society will rebel, and not always in the most pleasant form. In many countries I have seen strong trade unions enter into compacts with capitalistic producers, whereby the farmers, small business, the independent professions—all the unorganized part of the community which is invariably the larger part—has been soullessly gypped.

Organized labor has the duty and responsibility of protecting itself. But it also has the responsibility of seeing that it contributes, manifestly, to the stability, well-being, and steadily increasing wealth of the society of which it is only a part. Anything short of raising the level of the total well-being is not enough. Not only must labor get a larger slice of the existing pie; we need bigger and better pies altogether. We need to increase the total national income, as represented by real goods and services. It has never, at any time, under any system of distribution, been sufficient to assure a decent life to the whole people. And that means, among other things, better and more skillful work, the elimination of waste, the abandonment of sabotage, respect for the whole people, and wholehearted collaboration with every force and every mechanism looking toward that objective.

CHAPTER I

The annual Spring Frolic at the Green Hills Inn was in progress. Every person—young or old—who was of any social value in Green Hills was at the Inn, the men trim and debonair in spotless tails and tux, the women glamorous and luxurious in gleaming velvets and glittering metal cloths.

For Green Hills was one of the smartest suburbs within the metropolitan New Yorw area, and the first spring dance at the Inn was unquestionably the gala event of the season.

By eleven-thirty the party was in full sway, and the stag line, fortified by just the proper number of Scotch and sodas, was performing in splendid form. The women of Green Hills were proud of them. Perhaps a little later there would be those who might weaken—some to seek rest for weary feet in the smoking room downstairs, some to fall into the gentle unconsciousness which one too many Scotch induces. But as yet the evening was unspoiled.

Hal Stewart's orchestra, imported from a three weeks' engagement on Broadway, swung into the lively strains of "A Fine Romance." The older women took heart; they preferred these faster tunes. The quick rhythm stirred their blood; it proved that they could step around just as lively as the 17-year-old girls, despite grown children at home.

* * *

Millie Sanders, frisking by in the arms of Jerry Johnston, glanced over her shoulder at Jerry's wife, Laura.

"Who's that lovely blond with Bob Andrews?" she asked Laura excitedly, slowing Jerry down so that she might catch the answer.

"Mr. Hendry's secretary, I'm told," Laura replied. "I've never seen her before."

"Isn't she lovely? Jerry, don't you think she's lovely? Look, that blond girl dancing with Bob . . ."

Jerry looked. He saw a slim, golden-haired girl, and even to his untrained masculine eye it seemed fitting that she should be dressed in rich black velvet, unadorned save for the gardenias at her shoulder. Her eyes were bright, clear blue, and the depth of their color contrasted vividly with the fairness of her skin. She looked to Jerry like a girl who had just stepped out of some rare old painting, too delicate for this mad whirl of dancing.

"She's a beauty, all right," he assured Millie enthusiastically. "And much as I hate to break your faithful old heart, Millie, I think I'll park you over here by the palms and cut in on her myself."

Millie laughed good-naturedly. "You're not the only one thinking that. Every eye on the stag line is following her, but Bob keeps out of the way. You haven't a chance, Jerry. Better be contented with me for a while."

Millie was right. Every time Bob Andrews approached the south end of the room, where the men were gathered, a dozen pair of eyes tried to catch his, a dozen hands started upward to attract his attention. But each time, he adroitly changed his course.

After his tenth failure to cut in, Jimmy MacArthur looked disgusted.

"What's the matter with Andrews tonight?" he asked Philip Hendry, standing alongside of him. "Is he afraid we'll eat her?"

Philip shrugged carelessly. "It's plain to see," he remarked, with a touch of superiority, "that he begrudges you the lady's company."

"Can't say I blame him," Jimmy admitted. "Who is she, Phil?"

"My uncle's secretary, Joan Barrett."

"Joan Barrett, eh? Does she live here in Green Hills?"

"No. In town." He smiled provokingly. "And you won't find her listed in the phone book."

* * *

Philip edged away from the group, a little amused at this excitement Miss Barrett was causing. For his own part he cared little for girls of the fragile blond type. Give him a warm red-head any day, or a dashing black-eyed Susan like his sister Sybil. . . . Where was Sybil tonight, anyway? She'd give him the devil if he didn't put in an appearance. His eyes strayed over the other couples on the floor.

Presently he saw her coming toward him, dancing with Jim Neil. Philip smiled approvingly as he watched her. His sister, he told himself, was certainly the finest looking woman in Green Hills. Tonight, in a gorgeous gown of metal cloth which emphasized every line of her tall, slim body, she was smart, sophisticated, delicately arrogant.

For the moment she seemed unusually gay. Her white teeth strong and brilliant against the deep carmine of her lips, flashed constantly as she chatted with her partner. Her dark eyes roved provokingly over thee dancers, yet Philip noticed they carefully avoided the stag line, as if she were afraid their challenge might go unanswered.

At any other time, Sybil Hendry would have been the undisputed focus of every male eye; tonight she was feeling the new competition which her uncle's secretary was offering. She was feeling it, and despite her sparkling gayety she was not enjoying it. For more than one reason. . . .

Philip, quick to understand his sister's moods, saw beyond the quick flash of her smile, the cool abandon of her dancing. He saw the smoldering fire in her blue-black eyes, the tense poise of her dark head, the tiny pulse which beat spasmodically in her white throat whenever she struggled to hold her feelings in control.

* * *

He waited until Jim Neil came abreast of him again, then he stepped forward and tapped him on the shoulder. With a casual "Hello, Phil," Neil surrendered his partner. Philip guided his sister's steps out into the center of the floor without speaking. With light mockery in his tone, he sang softly the words of the orchestra's selection:

"A fine romance, with no kisses—
A fine romance, I think this is . ."

"Keep still!" Sybil snapped abruptly.

Her brother laughed.

"Nice of me, wasn't it, to give you a chance to be yourself?"

He whirled her past Bob Andrews and Joan Barrett, smiling graciously at Joan as he did so.

"If you have to be jealous, Syb," he murmured, "why must you look the part, for every cat in Green Hills to find it out?"

"That little upstart!" she whispered through clenched teeth. "I don't see why Bob hasn't better taste than to bring the office help out here."

"I'm afraid it goes deeper than that, Sybil," Philip said, not unkindly.

"It can't!" she said defiantly. "I won't let it!"

Philip said nothing. He felt a little sorry for Sybil. He knew, as no one else had ever guessed how desperately—and how futilely—she had loved Bob ever since that first evening, five years before, when their uncle had brought the young man home to dinner. "The best bond salesman the company ever had," Uncle John told them then; now, five years later, Bob Andrews was a junior partner, with every prospect of heading the Hendry organization eventually.

He was as striking in appearance as Sybil; he had the same dark, blue-black hair, the same straight classic features, the same flashing smile. But there the likeness ended. Where Sybil's eyes were mysteriously cold, no matter how gayly she smiled, Bob's were warm and twinkling. Where she was superficially gay and charming and caluculating, with a quick smile to serve her purpose, he was naturally and sincerely friendly, with as hearty a grin for the bootblack who shined his shoes as he had for his wealthiest customer.

SENEY REFUGE CASES DECIDED

Special Jury Votes on Awards to Owners of Marsh Land

The second of two important contested condemnation cases involving purchase by the government of land for the Seney migratory waterfowl refuge was concluded in U. S. court in Marquette Wednesday when a special Schoolcraft county jury awarded Ray Perring $3,250 for 471 acres of land and other property taken over by the government.

In the only other contested condemnation case the special jury awarded $999.59 to the estate of the late C. P. Stringfield, of Schoolcraft county, for 320 acres. Because the Springfield estate never was probated, title to the land is cloudy, but indications are that his widow is the rightful claimant to the money, which will be held by the court until the superior claim is proved.

Many Settled By Default

Cases involving more than 10,000 acres for the Seney refuge have now been settled, most of them by default. Money awarded in the default cases will be paid into the custody of the court for distribution to the persons having superior titles to the tracts involved.

It is estimated that about $2 per acre will be paid by the government for the land condemned. When the remaining eight cases are adjudicated at a later term of court, the government will have acquired title of 50,000 acres of land in the upper peninsula.

In awarding Ray Perring, owner of the Holland Creek Fur company, which ceased to operate in 1929, a total of $3,250 for his property, the jury compromised between the defendant's claim that the property was worth $42,500 and the government's contention that it was worth $2,087.87.

H. J. Yelland, Escanaba, attorney for the respondent, told the court that the property involved had value as a fur farm and presented witnesses who testified for this purpose it was worth $10 per acre, excluding value of buildings and other equipment on the property.

Experts Testfy

U. S. Attorney Joseph M. Donnelly, handling the case for the government, introduced many witnesses, including Harry Ruhl, head of the game division of the Michigan department of conservation, Dr. Miles D. Pirnie, waterfowl author and ornithologist at Michigan State college, and experts of the U. S. biological survey, who testified that the land in question had no value as a farm for the raising and sale of live muskrats.

In reaching its verdict as to the fair value of the property the jury allowed Perring $1,163 more than government witnesses figured it was worth. The value of $305.40 was fixed by stipulation for the timber on the land.

Clarence Johnson, refuge manager at Seney, who has had nine years' building experience, placed the salvage value of buildings dismantled by the government at $367.60 and their replacement at about $1,200. Johnson also testified that the salvage value of wire netting used to enclose 230 acres of the fur farm was $590.62.

The only other question of value was whether the land should be estimated on the basis of a fur farm or on the basis of the value of adjacent lands. Dr. Pirnie told the court that in his opinion other lands in the vicinity were better suited to raising of muskrats, and J. J. Munger, representative of the Stearns Coal and Lumber company, testified that in 1936 his company sold between 8,000 and 9,000 acres to the government for $1.50 per acre for land similar to that in question.

Harry Ruhl testified that at least two-thirds of the game farms in the state engaged in selling live muskrats had gone out of business, and that the number of muskrat farms decreased from 230 in 1929 to 28 in 1936. Last year, he said, not a single live muskrat was sold, whereas in 1929 records show a sale of 6,802 live muskrats.

Muskrat Farm "Craze"

It was the government's contention that muskrat farms were a craze that was sweeping the country in 1928, 1929 and 1930. "The muskrat farm business is now dead and the market for live muskrats is absolutely gone," Donnelly said.

Testimony was taken showing that in 1929 the state highway department drained part of the land, affecting water levels on the Holland Creek farm. Damages of $109,000 against the state were claimed, it was brought out, and in 1932, just before the change of administration, the state settled the claim for $5,000.

Defense counsel held that when the government took over the property there was no indication that the fur farm had been abandoned and that the property had value as a fur farm, above that of adjacent lands.

Others to testify in the case included William L. Townsend, of the biological survey, in charge of land acquisition for the Seney refuge; Frank G. Ashbrook, in charge of experimental fur farms for the biological survey, and Frank B. Russell, certified public accountant, of Escanaba.

Only a few more default condemnation cases remain to be settled and it is probable that the court will finish its work today or tomorrow.

90,000 Acres For Refuge

Townsend said yesterday acquisition by the government of land condemned at this term of court will give the Seney refuge about 90,000 acres, of which about 3,000 acres are under water. Dikes and dams are being built which will hold back more water in future years.

The purpose of the refuge is to restore the Seney marsh, drained following the World war for agricultural purposes, for a waterfowl breeding grounds and sanctuary. Formerly the marsh was one of the best waterfowl habitats in this region, but drainage projects spoiled the area for waterfowl. Because hundreds of thousands of acres of feeding grounds were spoiled by drainage in the north central states the biological survey is carrying on several restoration projects in an effort to provide adequate cover and food for waterfowl.

ROAD CLOSED FOR REPAIRS

Traffic North Re-Routed on M-35; Cut Over at Brampton

Because of work started on US-41 north of Rapid River and road under construction between Carlshend south to the Delta county line, the stretch between Carlshend and Rapid River has been closed to traffic.

Traffic bound for points between Munising and Escanaba should move by way of M-35 to Little Lake and from there by County Road 456 as far as Duke's corners.

South bound traffic out of Marquette should go by way of M-35, which means traveling to Negaunee and following M-35 from there. It is possible to go by way of Carlshend and Little Lake, but the gravel road between Duke's and Carlshend is in poor condition. It will not carry truck traffic and is regarded dangerous for passenger traffic. This condition is due entirely to the spring break-up and will be remedied when weather conditions permit.

Cut-Over at Brampton

Thaffic to points US-2 in the eastern end of the peninsula should go over M-35 to Brampton, cutting over to Rapid River from there by way of State Trunk Line 186, meeting US-2 at Rapid River.

A WPA contract job is underway north of Rapid River. It includes grading and drainage construction preparatory to adding another stretch of concrete to US-41.

The work from Carlshend is nearly ready for concrete on a stretch of three miles to Maple Grove, but from there to the Delta county line the project is grading and drainage construction.

OLDER BOYS TO MEET TONIGHT

District Banquet To Be Held in Swedish M. E. Church

Older boys from the district about Escanaba will meet for their spring conference tonight at a 6 o'clock banquet to be held at the Swedish Methodist church, First avenue south and 13th street. An assembly meeting for local delegates, to which their parents and any interested adults are invited, will be held in the senior high school auditorium at 3 o'clock.

Conference leaders to be here for the meeting are Ray John and Clifton M. Drury, Y. M. C. A. secretaries, George Campbell, song leader, and Dave Robell, pianist. Dr. W. Hamilton Aulenbach of Christ church, Cranbrook, will be guest speaker.

The theme of the meeting will deal with problems of boys between the ages of 14 and 20.

Dr. Aulenbach, in a recent conference statement, said: "Although there are 'sociability' values in such conferences, these are minor compared with the thought provoking and inspirational values. Attendance at an older boys' conference, directed by expert leaders, carries the thinking of boys into their future and personal problems of adjustment, with an intensity which is usually difficult for parents, schoolmen or religious leaders to achieve."

Delegations from cities within this district will attend this conference, which is in the nature of a preliminary to the Upper Peninsula meet to be held next fall.

At The Coliseum

Chick Sale and his Indiana Aces will furnish the music for the regular weekly dance at the Coliseum this evening. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 o'clock.

Spring Exhibit at Washington Well Attended

The annual Washington school spring exhibit of art work and progress in cooperative subjects, history, geography and language, was presented Wednesday evening at the school in connection with the April meeting of the Washington Parent-Teacher unit. The exhibit attracted an unusually large crowd, in spite of stormy weather conditions.

The exhibits were arranged in the various rooms of the school.

Miss Lenora Ryan's sixth graders presented a comprehensive study of the Middle Ages, medieval history and days of chivalry. A unique castle built of paper by the pupils and art, music and stories, some written by the pupils themselves, were included in the exhibit as well as colorful pictures portraying Switzerland and Germany.

Miss Ziebel's fifth grade pictured a City of Health. The exhibit, arranged on a bulletin board, entitled "Health Is Wealth," showed Mount Outdoor, Fresh Fruit Cottage, Milk Farm, Camp Rest, Exercise Beach, Playtime Field, Toothbrush Lane, Grouchy Man Toothache and the Good Ship Happy Days.

In Miss Carlson's fourth grade rooms was a frieze of Switzerland, unusual in coloring, depicting the industrious farm life of the country with a view of the Alps in the distance.

The third graders of Miss Sundquists' room showed a poster on spring, with birds of early spring, bird friends, bird houses, and poems, stories and riddles, written by the children.

The Smelt parade, with drawings of parade characters and stories of famous smelt runs featured the second grade exhibit, supervised by Miss Noreen Hughes. Another clever group was "If I Had a Wish," in which drawings and stories were combined.

Miss Wasson's first and second grade exhibited a transportation study of the City of Escanaba, arranged on a large sand table, which showed Bay de Noquet, the ore docks and ore boats, railway tracks, means of shipping and representations of important business houses and industrial plants.

Power of Observation

The exhibit of the first grade, taught by Miss Nelson, was based on a child's power of observation, his conception of a fire, of linemen working on a nearby building, and on activities of the week-end. The grade also showed chairs made of orange crates, upholstered in red and white, and a partially completed davenport on which the children are still working.

Miss Bezold's kindergarten display was one of stuffed toys, rabbits, dolls and bears, the stitching done by the children, and colorful clay modeling.

Particularly lovely was a creche, a Christmas project, in which the pupils of the various grades assisted the sixth graders.

The school orchestra, in uniforms of yellow and blue, played, under the direction of Frank Karas, during the exhibit.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT

"Murder Goes to College" and "Sea Devils" are features at the Delft theatre today and Saturday.

Lynne Overman and Roscoe Karns, popular screen funny men, are teamed as a comedy pair in "Murder Goes to College," a brisk, light-hearted mystery comedy.

Crack-voiced Overman is the detective in the new film, and Karns, the man who made the polka-dotted bow tie famous, is a crack-pot newspaper man who helps him. Both are after the murderer of a college professor who mixed mathematics with the policy racket. Overman gets his man and Karns gets the girl—beautiful Marsha Hunt.

"Murder Goes to College" was directed by Charles "Chuck" Riesner, at one time co-director and author for Charlie Chaplin.

• • •

When a couple of shipmates in the Coast Guard fall for the same girl, and the girl's father, a burly bo'sun's mate in the service, favors one of the men, there is bound to be plenty of pyrotechnics, as evidenced in RKO Radio's exciting drama, "Sea Devils," starring Victor McLaglen, Preston Foster and Ida Lupino and featuring Donald Woods.

Foster and Woods are rivals for McLaglen's daughter's hand. Realizing that Foster, a globe-circling ladies' man, is too much like himself, McLaglen essays the role of Cupid and tries to aid Woods' courtship in order to eliminate Foster.

This, of course, makes bitter enemies of the two giants, McLaglen and Foster, and it takes several wild and woolly fist battles before they come to any sort of understanding.

The supporting cast includes Gordon Jones, Helen Flint, Pierre Watkin, Murray Alper and Billy Gilbert.

AT THE MICHIGAN

"Breezing Home," a swiftly paced, brightly humored movie story about modern night clubs and streamlined race horses at the Santa Anita track, has been written by Finley Peter Dunne, Jr., and Philip Dunne, who get their writing ability from their notable forebear, Finley Peter Dunne, newspaper humorist famous for his "Mr. Dooley" series.

The Universal film, which opens at the Michigan today, features William Gargan, Binnie Barnes and Wendy Barrie. "Breezing Home" concerns a boy who meets two girls; then they all meet a horse. The movie relates the love affair of a night club singer, portrayed by Wendy Barrie, who is attracted to a horse trainer, played by William Gargan. Just when everything seems romantic as magnolia blossoming 'round the door, another lady, Binnie Barnes, rich and attractive, owner of a race horse string, begins to yearn for Bill.

Student Program Varied Business at P-T Meeting

A program by the eighth graders under the direction of Sister Mary Anthony, and a busy business session, featured a well attended meeting of St. Anne's Parent-Teacher association, held Wednesday in the parish hall.

The program, which was greatly enjoyed, included musical numbers and a playlet.

At the business session plans for the annual summer round-up were discussed and in urging cooperation in this vacation month activity, it was asked that the names of all children who will enter St. Anne's school this fall, be given the school principal.

The annual eighth grade banquet arrangements were considered and these will be announced as soon as they are complete.

The Council report was presented by Mrs. Arthur Barron.

Michigan Tech Band In Concert Here On April 30

Houghton, April 22—Fifth in the series of upper peninsula concerts to be played by the Michigan Tech R. O. T. C. band will be one in Escanaba April 30, according to an announcement made recently by Arthur Kitti, director of the musical group.

The last engagement of the tour will be played in an Iron Mountain theatre the evening of the same day, and the Tech musicians will return to Houghton, May 1.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams, 632 North 19th street, are the parents of an eight and a half pound daughter, born Thursday, April 22, at the Alvina Buchholtz Maternity Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Kellerman have returned from Marinette where they were guests at the wedding of Ursula Lauerman and Edward L. Meyer.

FOUNDATION FOR FASHIONS

Foundation garments are all important this spring. It's a year of clothes which fairly shout for proper corseting. With your nipped-in jackets, slim-waisted dirndl dresses and other form-fitting costumes, try an all-in-one foundation which makes your waistline look slim and reed-like. Under sports togs, wear a sheer two-way stretch pantie girdle. Authorities agree that every woman needs at least three foundation garments—one for daytime, another for evening and a third for sports. Also that the more you wash them, the longer they wear and hold their shape.

EXPECTS GOOD SEASON

Sault Ste. Marie—Bert Cady, a leading fisherman and tourist guide at Cedarville, stated Tuesday that he expects a tourist season for Les Cheneaux Islands this summer that will probably eclipse any season ever had there, including the boom days of 1929. Not only that, but fishing will be excellent, and persons who come north to enjoy fishing are due to have a happy vacation.

Presentation of Operetta at School Tonight

"Prince of Peddlers," Clark and Treharne, Junior high school operetta, which was enjoyed by a large audience of students at the matinee preview performance Thursday afternoon, will be presented this evening at 8:15 o'clock at William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium. The operetta is given by permission of the publishers, Carl Fischer, Inc., of New York.

The production is directed by Ross Stoakes, who is being assisted by the following members of the faculty: Agnes Burke, Cecelia Pepin, Lois Gaut, Frank Karas, E. John Nicholas, R. P. Bowers, Margaret Dwyer, Florence Londerville and Helen Snyder.

Over eighty students will participate in tonight's presentation. The production is accompanied by an orchestra made up largely of Junior high school students.

Colorful costumes and scenery have been procured as a background for the delightfully gay and sparkling music which tells a wholesome and light-hearted story. However, there are a number of more serious moments in the play, but by the time the final curtain falls everything has been terminated satisfactorily for everyone concerned.

There are still reserved seats available at the office of the Junior high school.

McKenney On Bridge

LOGIC CUTS GUESSWORK

By First Discarding a Loser, Declarer Avoids Risk of Defeat if One of Two Finesses Fails.

• • •

BY WM. E. McKENNEY
Secretary, American Bridge League

There is a popular saying, quoted facetiously by bridge players, that "one peek is worth two finesses." The bridge player who has to make two guesses to fulfill a contract usually goes down one, as the general average of guessing is about 50 per cent.

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

West	North	East
	♠ K 10 9 8 5 3 ♥ 7 3 ♦ A K 4 ♣ 8 7
♠ 4 2 ♥ Q 10 5 4 ♦ 10 9 7 ♣ K 10 5 3	N / W E / S / Dealer	♠ 6 ♥ A J 9 8 6 ♦ 6 5 3 ♣ J 9 4 2
	♠ A Q J 7 ♥ K 2 ♦ Q J 8 2 ♣ A Q 6

Duplicate—All vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 N. T.	Pass	6 ♠	Pass

Opening lead—♠ 4. 20

The expert player has it over the novice since the beginner just makes a guess, while the expert looks around for chances to reduce the guessing to a point where he has more than an even chance. In today's hand the declarer should reduce the guessing to a minimum.

Today's Contract Problem

South has the contract for six spades. Should he draw adverse trumps and depend on favorable location of the diamond king to limit his loss to one trick in that suit?

West	North	East
	♠ K J 9 7 ♥ A Q 7 3 ♦ Q 9 2 ♣ 6 5
(Blind)	N / W E / S / Dealer	(Blind)
	♠ A Q 10 8 ♥ 2 ♦ A 7 6 5 4 ♣ A K Q

All vul. Opener—♣ J.
Solution in next issue. 20

The club and diamond bids were used to show top cards in those suits, and South, by his bid of four no trump, was showing second round control of hearts, as he lacked the heart ace to justify a cue bid in that suit. Of course, the jump from one spade to three had set that suit as the eventual contract.

At first glance the contract appeared to rest merely on the choice of a club or heart finesse, but South, after loking over his resources, saw an additional chance whereby his contract was safe if East held either the club king or the heart ace.

The opening lead of the spade four was won with the queen. Another round of trump was played. Then four rounds of diamonds, discarding a heart in dummy.

Dummy was entered with a trump and the heart led. East had to play the ace or South would win the trick with the king.

East returned a club, but South no longer needed the risk of the club finesse. He played the ace and discarded dummy's losing club on the heart king.

Had West held the heart ace, South would have tried the club finesse for his twelfth trick.

GREEN WITH VIOLET

Moss green and violet, first introduced at a spring style show in Miami, make a color combination which is the very essence of spring. Such a combination also will suggest shady glens when summer suns begin to shine.

In an explosion at Monorgah, W. Va., in December, 1907, 358 men were killed—the greatest loss of lives in any United States mine disaster.

ACHING HEADS AND SPOTTY EYES

Don't let constipation ruin your health. Read Mr. Davidson's message of cheer: "Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has sure been a godsend to me. This is the first relief I have ever had. Believe me, I will be a booster for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as long as I live!"— C. T. Davidson, 722 N St., Sacramento, Calif.

Common constipation may lead to many diseases. Unpleasant breath, blotchy complexions, spots before the eyes — are only forerunners of worse to come.

Conquer constipation with a delicious, ready-to-eat cereal — Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Simply eat two tablespoonfuls daily — in chronic cases with every meal. Serve it with milk or fruits. Cook into appetizing muffins, breads, etc.

You'll prefer this delightful, natural way instead of the artificial action of pills and drugs. Buy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TIME FREIGHT IN DERAILMENT

Traffic Over Soo Line Disrupted at East End of Division

Derailment of the Soo Line time freight No. 15 near Garnet yesterday morning disrupted traffic over the eastern end of the division for a considerable time and forced the cancellation of several trains.

Thirteen cars were reported off the rail.

The derailment occurred about 10:45 o'clock. A wrecker with Axel Larson in charge left here for the scene at one o'clock in the afternoon. It was expected that between 10 and 11 hours would be required to clean up the wreck.

None of the train crew, composed of five local men, was injured. In the crew was Phil Hufford, engineer; George Johnston, fireman; Wm. Masterson, conductor; Art Thivierge and Orville Hoover, brakemen.

Passenger train 87 westbound due in Gladstone at 1:35 p. m. was annulled and train 86 eastbound which leaves here about 1:45 p. m. was also cancelled.

Spring Conference Being Held Today at Escanaba

Fifteen local boys will attend the spring Older Boys conference being held in Escanaba today.

The delegates, all members of the Hi-Y club are Alton Hoover, Spencer Mathison, Leland Gabe, Carl Knutson, Alfred White, Robert Micheau, Jack Norton, Robert Olson, Robert Zadnick, Albert Rustad, Norman McIntyre, Richard Johnston, Robert McDonald, Norman Swanson and Walton Erickson. They will be accompanied by Foster Benjamin, faculty advisor of the Hi-Y.

Dr. W. Hamilton Eulenbach of Cranbrook, will be the main speaker of the conference. Also attending will be Cliff Drury, well-known conference organizer and leader, and George Campbell, popular song leader.

Dr. Aulenbach is a young preacher pastor of Christ church, Cranbrook. He has delivered addresses at Older Boys conferences, Hi-Y training camps and a series of smaller conferences in the lower peninsula.

A similar spring conference was held in Gladstone two years ago.

Establishment Of Auto Trailer Camp Being Considered

Possibility of establishment of an auto trailer campsite is being considered by the city commission.

It has been suggested that permission be secured to locate the camp among the pines on the Ford property east of Fourth street. Lights and water could be run in to this point at slight cost.

Another suggestion has been to procure the right from owners of propery adjoining the present park to the westward to allow tourists with trailers the right of its use for parking privileges.

It has also been suggested that the time which a tourist may remain with a trailer during any given season be limited.

LIQUOR CHARGES ARE DISMISSED

Gladstone Licensees Are Cleared of Selling to Minors

Charles against the proprietors of two Gladstone establishments, Jean hotel and United Workers hall, were declared unfounded by Commissioner V. F. Gormely of the Michigan state liquor control commission at hearings held yesterday afternoon at the branch office in Escanaba. Both cases were dismissed.

Serving to minors was the complaint in each case, Mrs. Ethel Reynolds of the Jean hotel being named in one and William Belanger of the United Workers hall in the other.

The disappearance of a witness, coupled with testimony in direct opposition to that made in his affidavit, left no grounds for action in the Jean hotel case, Commissioner Gormely stated. Eugene Kulju, CCC enrollee at Polack Lake camp, disappeared into the woods after being notified that he had been summoned to attend the hearing. Authorities were unable to locate him immediately.

His affidavit, which was read in yesterday's hearing, stated that he was 16 years of age and had purchased beer and bottled whisky at the Jean hotel. It named Frank Skidmore, Chicago, fellow enrollee at Polack Lake camp, as a companion on the night the purchases were said to have been made.

Testimony Contradictory

Testimony by Skidmore, however, contradicted that of Kulju. Although Skidmore agreed that the two enrollees had visited the Jean hotel on the night in question, he stated that they had not been sold beer or liquor. He added that they had been asked to leave the premises, and had gone out without obtaining beer or liquor.

This testimony was in agreement with that made yesterday by Mrs. Ethel Reynolds, proprietor, and her two assistants who stated under oath that no liquor had been sold the two boys.

Kulju was summoned, through CCC camp officers, to appear at the hearing yesterday afternoon. Accroding to information supplied by Skidmore, he was going into the woods when he was called back, but instead of returning to camp he fled into the brush. Copies of his affidavit, which was made before William Miller, Delta county prosecutor, together with the contradictory statement of Skidmore will be sent to CCC officers to provide a basis for any disciplinary action they may choose to take.

Gladstone police picked up Kulju, intoxicated, on the night it was charrged that the purchases of liquor had been made. Later he made and signed the affidavit, which described in detail his actions on that night.

Prosecuting Attorney Miller was instructed by Commissioner Gormely to take a detailed statement from Skidmore and send it, with a copy of Kulju's affidavit, to CCC officers at Camp Polack Lake.

Witness Present

In the case of the United Workers hall, also a charge of serving to a minor, the witness was present. Arnold Vandenberg, the minor involved, repeated testimony given Wednesday. He said that he had frequented the hall for some time, and had been there with his parents on several occasions. He testified that he had never been questioned as to his age by the proprietor of the establishment.

William Belanger then testified that he had seen the boy in the hall on several occasions, both alone and accompanied by his parents, and had sold him beer. He stated that he had asked Vandenberg his age, and that the answer was 21.

When questioned as to the age he gave the police officers on the night he was picked up by them, Vandenberg admitted saying he was 21. He denied making this statement to the tavern operator, however. The next morning, he said he had admitted to the Gladstone police that his age was really 17. Several Gladstone persons testfied that the boy's physical characteristics were such that he might easily be taken to be 21 years of age.

Commissioner Gormely ruled that there would be no action taken in the case, with the observation that the complainant admitted lying to the police department—and might easily have lied to the tavern keeper also, as Belanger testified.

Snow Storm Causes Extra Work for Linemen

Telephone and light poles took a bad beating in the snowstorm which struck this vicinity Wednesday night. Many poles snapped under the strain and wires were broken. Pictured here are city and telephone company employes busily engaged in repairing damage caused by the heavy snow.

SNOW CAUSES DAMAGE HERE

Crews Kept Busy Repairing Electric and Phone Lines

Considerable damage to electric power transmission and communication lines was caused in this area by the heavy wet snow which fell Wednesday and most of Wednesday night.

Municipal crews under the direction of A. F. Raddant worked most of the night in an effort to keep electric service open to all parts of the city and were still busy yesterday.

At the east end of the city a 2300 volt line went down and caused some brilliant electrical fireworks until the city crew took charge.

Transmission line poles in several other parts of the city also collapsed under the heavy load.

However, only a few persons were inconvenienced by lack of current, it was reported. The area where power was off for a time included only 8 homes, it was said.

The telephone company also had its troubles, five or six poles on the north side of Delta avenue, east of Third street, having fallen.

Wires used by the Soo Line railroad for telegraph service were down someplace between here and Sault Ste. Marie, it was reported.

Up and Out of Bed, Able to Work Since He Tried KruGon

LOCAL MAN HAD BEEN CONFINED TO HIS BED FOR FOUR MONTHS SO CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM; NEW LAXATIVE-TONIC AMAZING, STOMACH, KIDNEYS FINE TOO, LIKE NEW AGAIN

"KruGon is the very medicine I had been needing for twenty-five years," said Mr. Eney Gagnon Route No. 2, Bark River, Michigan (near here) a well known farmer and woodsman of this vicinity, recently in an amazing statement reaching the West End

MR. ENEY GAGNON

Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

"Rheumatism had settled in my back and legs and kept me in constant misery for twenty-five years," continued Mr. Gagnon, "I finally became so crippled I was forced to go to bed and there I remained for four months until I began this new KruGon. By the time I had finished my first box of this new capsule remedy I was up and around and now since taking two boxes I am back to work, feeling fine and everyday my work is more pleasant I feel so well again. Those awful rheumatic pains have gone entirely, get around with ease and really enjoy life as others in good health."

"But that was not all," continued Mr. Gagnon, "I had been bothered for years with attacks of indigestion after eating and my kidneys failed to function properly. It seems the poisons over my system had disordered my body in general—but a short trial of KruGon soon put me back to normal. I now eat and enjoy my meals without distress afterwards, sleep good the entire night through without the least disturbance, bowels regulated and it is a real pleasure to tell others how they too may regain their health—through the use of this new KruGon."

And so it goes—another case right here in Escanaba and vicinity where KruGon has accomplished what was previously thought impossible because of the failures of all other medicines—and so it has been in thousands of the most agonizing cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles.

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., Escanaba.

COUNTY BOARD MEETING ENDS

$28,000 in General Fund Ordered Released to Road Comish

The county board of supervisors wound up its April organization meeting Wednesday afternoon at the court house after disposing of the work confronting it.

The board voted to instruct the county treasurer to release a sum of money totalling about $28,000 now in the general fund, to the road commission. The money originally was credited to the road commission but was impounded in a local bank and when the money was releaesed by the bank it was placed in the general fund and not credited to the road commission.

Members of the commission appeared before the board to request that the money be turned over to their account because they felt they would need the funds badly this summer for road improvement throughout the county. It was reported that the commission planned to improve a mile of new road in each township.

The board also authorized salary increases for clerks in the treasurers' and judge of probate offices for a six month period.

A contract made by the abstract committee of the board with Leslie Bouschor, county abstractor, was approved by the board. It provides a payment of $1,050 to the abstractor for bringing the abstract records up to date by the close of 1938. The records were four years behind when purchased by the county last year.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

z—New 1937 low.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, April 22 (AP)—Light selling was sufficient today to topple stock market prices and many leaders lost everything they gained in Wednesday's session.

Declines of fractions to around 3 points were general, a few recessions of 5 or more were in evidence. New lows for the year were plentiful at the close. At the same time a handful of favorites managed to come out moderately ahead.

Stocks apparently took their cue partly from commodities and bonds, most of which fell back substantially. Cotton, grain and rubber futures especially were in supply.

Brokers seemingly were unable to find outstanding news items to account for the retreat. Earnings statements, while not so numerous, generally were on the constructive side of the ledger, although here and there company profits for the first quarter were under those of the same period last year.

Waiting for Congress

There were conjectures voiced regarding what congress will do with the president's recommendations for relief funds and the slashing of appropriations in other directions. The result was said to have been that many traders remained aloof and waited for skys to clear.

The matter of expanding payrolls and other corporation expenses was brought home to Wall Street when Brooklyn Union Gas directors reduced the dividend. The reason given was "increased costs, especially taxes." The stock hit a new bottom for the move at 3½, off 4 5-8 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues yielded .9 of a point at 70.7. This wiped out the upturn of yesterday. The utility composite edged into new low territory. Transfers amounted to 1,177,520 shares compared with 1,248,380 in the preceding session.

Motors also went into reverse without much resistance in the face of reports of capacity production for most makers. Rails held their own for a while, then followed the rest of the list. The volatile farm implement group displayed wide drops in some instances. A few rubbers and specialties kept out in front on optimistic business showings.

Wheat at Chicago lost 7-8 to 2¼ cents a bushel and corn was off ½ to 1¼. Cotton was down 80 cents to $1 a bale.

Active Stocks Hit Low Level On Curb

New York, April 22 (AP)—The curb market took to its heels today and active stocks sold fractions to more than 3 points lower in moderate dealings.

Setbacks were more pronounced in the high-priced section, although a substantial number of low and medium priced shares fell back major fractions to more than a point.

In the latter category were American Potash & Chemical off 3 at 48, Hydro Electric securities 1 7-8 at 10, Northern States Power "A" 1 3-8 at 26 and American Gas & Electric ¾ at 36¼. Gulf Oil, Arkansas Natural Gas "A" and American Cyanamid "B" declined fractionally.

Pepperell and Aluminum Co. were among the heaviest losers in the more costly group, the former dropping 3¼ to 146¾ and the latter 3 to 157. Newmont Mining declined nearly 2.

Chicago Flexible Shaft made a notable counter move, gaining 1½ to 69½, and Wayne Pump gained 1 to 45¼. Most other advances were held to fractions.

Volume amounted to 307,000 shares compared with 299,000 Wednesday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, April 22—Severe tumbles of wheat values at Winnipeg, 4 cents a bushel in some cases, unsettled the Chicago market late today, with 2¼ cents loss here.

Heavy liquidating sales of May wheat tended almost from the outset to drag Chicago prices down, but the offerings were well absorbed until the Canadian market gave way in earnest as the day approached an end. Houses with eastern connections that were prominent buyers earlier in the week appeared to be principal sellers today.

The fact that direct purchases of 80,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat to go from Chicago to Europe in competition with Canadian wheat were confirmed today was in some quarters associated with price breaks at Winnipeg. There were also indications that more wheat from the 1937 United States new crop of wheat is being disposed of abroad than has been reported.

At the close, wheat futures in Chicago were 7-8 to 2¼ cents under yesterday's finish, May $1.32½ to 1.32 3-4, July 1.18½, September 1.16 to 1.16¼, corn ½ to 1¼ down, May 1.27 3-8 to 1.27 5-8, July 1.16 1-8 to 1.16¼, September 1.08 to 1.08 1-8, oats 3-8 to 7-8 off, May 48 7-8 to 49, and rye showing ¼ to 1¼ setback, May 1.10½. Provisions closed 5 to 17 cents higher.

May delivery of wheat led price downturns in Chicago, and from a top of $1.35 dropped to $1.32 3-8, with a slight rally at the last. Liverpool wheat quotations today higher than expected were virtually ignored in Chicago.

Corn, oats and rye fluctuated mainly in line with wheat.

Provisions reflected hog market gains.

BY STEPHEN DICKINSON
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, April 22 (AP)—Recessions were the order in the bond market today as active issues stepped back i nthe face of fresh offerings of governments.

The federal list recoiled following an early accumulation of selling orders, but late in the session recovered a portion of lost ground. Net losses on the day, however, ranged to 3-8 of a point with several loans off that much. Many others dipped small fractions. Trading was a bit more brisk than Wednesday.

Losses became rather pronounced in the railroad section of the corporate list late in the day as prices settled measurably below previous closing levels. Setbacks ranged from fractions to nearly 2 points with Missouri Pacific 5s "F" off 1 3-8 at 43 5-8, Allegheny stamped 5s down 1 at 61, Atlantic Coast Line 4½s off 1½ at 92½, New Haven debenture 4s down 2 at 29½ and Northern Pacific 3s off 1 1-8 at 74. The Associated Press averages for this group dropped .4 of a point to 93.8.

General Motors Acceptances 3¼s lost 7-8 to 99½ and American Water Works 6s dropped 2¼ to 105.

Foreign bonds worked lower at a slow pace with small fractional reverse ruling. Issues of Cuban sugar companies fell sharply as house committee studied proposals to revise downward the islands' quotas. Francisco Sugar 6s lost 5 to 74 and Manati certificates 7½s reacted 3½ to 66½.

Total volume was $11,685,000, face value, for all bonds compared with $11,707,000 Wednesday.

Garden Files More Charges In Braddock Suit

CONTRACT BARS CHICAGO MATCH

Champ Using Greed for His Defense, New Brief States

BY SCOTTY RESTON

New York, April 22 (AP)—Madison Square Garden continued its legal battle for an injunction against the Jimmy Braddock-Joe Louis bout today by charging that Braddock "is putting forward his greed as equitable defense" for repudiating his contract to meet Max Schmeling for the Garden, June 3.

In a long and carefully worded brief to Federal Judge Guy L. Fake of Newark, N. J., the Garden's counsel conceded that "the chief issue in the case is what contract or contracts are in effect between the parties at the present time," they sought to prove "it is necessary to read the contracts of April 10, 1935 and December 12, 1936 together in order to ascertain the rights of Braddock and the Garden in the Schmeling bout."

Consent Required

Under the April 10, 1935 contract, Braddock agreed to fight 'his first boxing contest" after winning the heavyweight title for the Garden and "not to engage in any boxing contest other than four round exhibition bouts without the written consent of the Garden," before defending his title.

The December 12, 1936 contract says "Braddock cannot meet Joe Louis until after June 3, 1937."

Arguing before Judge Fake in Newark a week ago, Braddock's counsel claimed that the December 12 contract included the essential agreements of all previous contracts between Braddock and the Garden and therefore stood alone. The Garden's attorneys contended Braddock was still tied to the first contract and pointed out that the Louis bout in Chicago June 22 would be "his first title defense" unless he fulfilled his contract to meet Schmeling.

Judge Fake reserved decision and asked the Garden to file additional briefs today. Braddock's counsel will be given another week in which to answer these briefs.

For Self-Protection

The Garden counsel claimed that the December 12 contract was drawn up merely to bring Schmeling and Braddock under the jurisdiction of the New York state athletic commission, and to protect the Garden's rights as set forth in the first contract. They also pointed out that the original contract gave the Garden the right to stage the bout in a suitable arena in any city in the United States, and argued that if they had chosen a state where there was no boxing commission the original April 10, 1935 contract with Braddock would have stood alone.

The Garden's reasons for inserting the clause that Braddock could not meet Louis until after June 3, 1937, was that "any contest with so strong an opponent might have had serious consequences with relation to the Braddock-Schmeling bout."

The Garden charged Braddock, through his counsel, with "definitely announcing his intention of not participating in the Schmeling bout" in order to accept a more lucrative offer to fight Louis, and then asked:

"While the defendant is putting forward his greed as equitable defense, what of the Garden and its rights?"

"Braddock's undertaking that he would not participate in any bout with Joe Louis until after June 3, 1937 was not a mere recital of a meaningless date," the brief stated.

"It was merely another way of saying 'it is understood you (Braddock) cannot participate in any bout with Louis until after the Braddock-Schmeling contest scheduled for June 3, 1937 is held'."

Claiming that Braddock's Irish followers and Schmeling's German rooters would make up an adequate attendance, the Garden denied that 75 per cent of the attendance at New York heavyweight championship bouts is made up of Jews.

WILD CONTEST WON BY CARDS

Everything Happens But Double Plays; Score Is 14 to 11

Cincinnati, April 22 (AP)—The Cardinals made it two straight over the Cincinnati Reds today by taking a wild scoring contest, 14 to 11. Manager Charley Dressen used 18 players and St. Louis inserted 13. Each team sent four pitchers to the mound.

Everything happened except double plays. There were wild pitches, passed balls and hit batsmen.

First baseman Johnny Mize hit a home run.

The Cards sent Paul Derringer, the Reds' leading righthander and a former Cardinal, to the showers in the third. The Reds came back in the fourth to score nine runs on seven hits.

St. Louis scored four runs in the sixth when Joe Medwick doubled to drive in three and then scored on an error. Cincinnati tied the count at 11-all in the sixth. St. Louis tallied its final three runs in the eighth.

Tennis Tilt Washed Out By Rains Again

East Lansing, April 22 (AP)—Rain washed out the tennis match between Michigan State and Kalamazoo colleges for the second time in five days and athletic officials today postponed the contest until June 2.

Only Dictator Can Save Boxing, Dempsey Predicts

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT

Dallas, April 22 (AP)—One more year at its present pace and the fight game will be washed up, Jack Dempsey bluntly predicted here today.

"Something must be done, and if it isn't done within the next year we just won't have any boxing," flared the 42-year-old former heavyweight master. "In the past five years boxing has deteriorated so much that all other sports have gone far ahead .

"The game needs a czar—a Judge Landis of boxing—someone who can supervise the washing of boxing dirty linen in its own backyard. Run the game like organized baseball is handled—that's the idea."

Manassa's noted mauler, trim as ever, warmed up to his subject by citing the current Braddock-Louis-Schmeling tangle as one of his major claims that boxing is on a one-way path to the rocks.

"Boxing isn't boxing anymore—it's just a big lawsuit. If contracts and promises are no good, what good is the fight game; they promised Maxie Schmeling a shot at the title if he whipped Joe Louis. He did, and helped save the fight game. He signed his contract to fight Braddock and is most certainly the logical contender. What has he got? A piece of paper."

Louis Can't Take It

And then he paused long enough to inject his private opinion of Louis.

"A great fighter must have three things—a fighting heart and the ability to give and take it. Louis can give it but he can't take that right hand punch and he doesn't have the fighting heart. He is not the greatest fighter in the world today and is not a real champion. Jim Braddock, if he sails in like Schmeling did, can whip Louis."

One urgent need for the heavyweight situation, he said, is men who can develop youngsters. He cited Bob Nestell, Pacific Coast sensation, and Godoy, the South American, as youngsters who show promise. But good prospects are few, he added.

Dempsey suggested a "clearing house," possibly under a federal commission, for all recognized fighters, who would be rated so promoters would know at all times whether they had a first class fighter, a good club boy or a knockout.

Dempsey, here to referee a fight, suddenly ended his outburst against present day fights with:

"And say, Barbara, my nine-months old daughter, has two new teeth."

NET TOURNEY TO BE MAY 22

Escanaba Will Be Host to Regional Meet; 40 Are Invited

Invitations were mailed yesterday to about 40 Upper Peninsula schools to enter the regional high school tennis tournament which will be held under sanction of the State Athletic association in Escanaba May 22. A. J. Groop has been named tournament manager.

An effort is being made this year to interest a large number of schools in the sport of tennis and the local school hopes to have a record number of entries. Each school is permitted a maximum of four in the singles and two doubles teams. Singles players may not compete in the doubles events and vice versa.

Class B schools will compete in their own class while Class C and D schools will be combined.

Last year's tournament was held at Crystal Falls. Escanaba last had the regional meeting in 1935 at which time entries included Escanaba, St. Joseph, Kingsford, Iron Mountain and Crystal Falls.

Two new tennis courts at the point of Ludington street are expected to be resurfaced and ready for service by tournament time.

BONURA DRIVES IN 4 SOX RUNS

Chicago Evens Up Series With Browns in 6-1 Victory

St. Louis, April 22, (AP)—Zeke Bonura and Monte Stratton were thorns in the flesh of the St. Louis Browns today as the Chicago White Sox evened the 2-game series with a 6 to 1 victory.

Five hits, only one for extra bases, were all the heavy hitting Browns of yesterday could garner off the delivery of Stratton. Bonura, husky Sox first baseman, drove in four runs.

One of Bonura's two hits was a home run into the left field bleachers in the third inning with no one on base. The other was a double in the first inning which sent two runs over. His long fly in the seventh accounted for another.

Jack Knott, St. Louis pitcher, limited the Sox to seven hits—not a bad record—but two of the five men he walked scored. One Sox run came as a result of an error by Bill Knickerbocker, the Browns' shortstop missing Ray Radcliff's grounder in the eighth.

Sam West, veteran outfielder who walked to start the ninth inning, scored the Browns' only run on an infield out. After his walk, Vosmik flied out, Bell's single—his second of the day—sent West to third and he scored as Berger tossed out Hornsby.

Score by innings:

Chicago ---------------------------- 201 000 110—6 7 0
St. Louis --------------------------- 000 000 001—1 5 2

Michigan Net Crew Beats Normal, 7-2

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 22. (AP)—Michigan's tennis team defeated Michigan Normal, 7 to 2, today in weather better suited for football. Paced by Capt. Miller Sherwood, the Wolverines swept the doubles and captured all but two singles matches in straight sets during the one-sided contest. Toledo university's netters come here tomorrow.

Wolverines Leave To Take On Iowa

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 22 (AP)—The Michigan baseball team departed by automobile today for its two-game series with Iowa at Iowa City. Coach Ray Fisher took 10 men. He expected Burt Smith to pitch the first game tomorrow, saving Herm Fishman for Saturday.

WEATHER GIVES TIGERS BREAK

Crippled Pitching Staff Needs Time to Get Over Injuries

Detroit, April 22 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers got another "break" today—a second postponement.

When today's scheduled game with the Cleveland Indians was called off, it gave the crippled Tiger pitchers a longer time to recover from injuries.

Detroit, as one sports observer put it, will welcome baseball postponements for at least two weeks.

As a result of wet grounds and threatening weather today, the Tigers will open a three-game series with the White Sox at Chicago tomorrow with an undefeated record—on one game—and two days of rest since the inaugural victory.

The Indians, who were defeated 4 to 3 in Tuesday's game, which opened the American League season for the two teams, will return home without a chance to even up the series.

Wednesday's rain, which caused postponement of the second game, left a muddy diamond. Cold weather added the prospect that a game today would not draw a large crowd of fans.

Arm Feels Good

Although Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe reports his cold and stomach ailment are almost gone and his arm feels so good that Manager Mickey Cochrane told him he could pitch Saturday, it did not appear certain that he was ready for regular mound duty.

Tommy Bridges reported the torn muscle in his side is continuing to improve, but there was no indication when he would be ready to pitch.

With Elden Auker the only top pitcher in form, the Detroit pitching staff probably will not be at full strength for a week or more.

Cochrane said he intended to start Roxie Lawson on the mound against the Sox tomorrow.

Babe Herman, veteran outfielder purchased from Cincinnati, will go along with the team to Chicago.

"We'll use him as a pinchhitter for a while," Cochrane said.

Bark River Club Picks New Slate

New officers were elected for the coming year at an organization meeting of the Bark River baseball club held at the community club in that village Wednesday evening.

The officers are: President, J. Van Enkevort; secretary and treasurer, William Boyle, and manager, F. C. Courville. The team decided to join a league if one is organized this year. A staff of directors will be named at a later meeting.

PIRATES MAKE IT 2 STRAIGHT

Southpaw Brandt Whiffs Eight, Shows Class in Pinches

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—Ed (Dutch) Brandt, veteran southpaw, pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a second straight win over the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field today, 4 to 2.

Each team made 10 hits, but the Pirate lefthander fanned eight Bruins and was effective in the pinches, halting a Cub rally in the seventh inning after the Chicagoans had put three men on base with one out.

Al Todd led the Pirate attack with a single and a triple, the three-bagger accounting for two runs in the sixth frame. Bill Lee, starting Cub hurler, was touched for nine safeties.

Pittsburgh scored a run in the opening inning when Paul Waner and Arky Vaughan singled. They made their second tally in the third on Paul Waner's walk, Dickshot's single and a forceout. The Bruins scored in the fourth on O'Dea's double and Hack's single and again in the seventh when Hack, Jurges and Galan singled, with Handley dropping a throw at second trying to force Galan. The error left the bags loaded with one out, but Brandt forced Stainback to pop out and fanned Rip Collins.

Clay Bryant gave up only one hit in the two final innings he worked for the Bruins. Cold weather held the crowd to 4,078.
